REPORT REVOLT IN GERMANY

PUBLIC LIBRARY OF JOHNSTON

PARIS, Sept. 5 (AP)—A semi-official Paris radio broadcast today reported trouble in Germany and said there had been disorders in Cologne, Dusseldorf and Essen as well as the areas of all Czechoslovakia.

Bearing out this report from Paris came other news dispatches from the French capital claiming serious disorders had broken out in these areas as well as in Bohemia and Moravia.

These dispatches, from Zurich, Switzerland, said the disorders in the conquered Czech territory were mostly at Brno, Prague and Pilsen.

"Heavy detachments left Dresden and Leipzig for Bohemia and Moravia, where they occupied edifices with machine guns. Disorders were reported in regions of Slovakia where Czech refugees are concentrated," the dispatches concluded.

From Berlin came reports that German and French soldiers had agreed on "no shooting." (Page 9)

(Editor's Note: Coming from various widespread sources, credence may be placed in these bulletins, though the likelihood of French propaganda also must be considered.)

U. S. ENVOY, AIDES QUIT WARSAW; BRITISH BOMB NAZI WAR FLEET

German claims of huge gains in Poland, British assertion of a successful bombing of the German fleet, definite proof the submarine that torpedoed the Athenia also shelled its victims marked the latest day of "Hitler's War" in Europe.

BERLIN—With Hitler at the front and reported fired upon (Back Page), the German high command claimed advances up to 18 miles in Poland, capture of two important cities which control vast iron, zinc and copper mines, a tightening of the pincers on Posen, Lodz and Warsaw. (Pages 2 and 34.)

LONDON—Britain bombs German fleet near Kiel canal; report "severe damage" inflicted on Nazi warships in air raid. Berlin reports say 10 British planes downed.

GREENOCK, Scotland—Athenia survivors say submarine first sent torpedo into engine room, then surfaced, firing two shells at sinking vessel. Survivors tell tales of horror and heroism. Death toll may reach 90 among the 1347 aboard. (Pages 3 and 4.)

PARIS—Air raid warnings reveal newest means of defense—artificial fog which covered city while warning is in effect. Million seek shelter. Military operations secret. (Page 2.)

Biddle, U. S. Staff Flee Pole Capital

WARSAW, Sept. 5 (AP)—Thousands of Poles and several hundred foreigners, including most of the Americans remaining here, left this Polish capital city today, fleeing into the interior beyond the reach of German armies and planes.

There were reports that officials of the government itself might leave within a few hours.

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., United States ambassador, his family and most of his staff, left during the day in a motor caravan flying American flags. They headed for an undisclosed spot where Biddle proposed to continue functioning as near normally as possible.

Other Americans, including a number of Polish descent, occupied the extra seats in the Biddle cara-

BERLIN, Sept. 5—Polish industrial key points of Kattowitz and Koenigshuette with their vast iron, zinc and copper mines passed into the hands of the Germany army today, an official communique declared, adding the combined pincer and encirclement tactics of Reich troops were slicing up Poland at the rate of 15 miles a day.

Retreating from the rich Upper Silesia region, the Poles were said to have failed to blow up their

'Made Fog' Shields Paris as Million Flee In Fear of Air Raids

PARIS, Sept. 5 (AP)—The war came home to the million or so people still in Paris at 3:35 this morning (10:35 p. m. Monday, E D T) when air raid sirens routed them out of beds and sent them scurrying into cellars.

For the half hour's time it has been figured it would take German planes to travel from the French frontier to the capital, the life of the city went underground, and the metropolis lay empty in bright moonlight.

Soon clouds of artificial fog drifted across the face of the moon, turning fair weather into foul and obscuring the city from any aerial raiders.

When dawn broke over the chimney pots of Paris two hours after the alarm sounded, the populace started emerging from refuges like rabbits coming out of holes. But the passive defense wardens and police whistled them back to cover.

After three and a half hours, a new siren call ended the alert at 7:05 a. m. (2:05 a. m., E. D. T.) and traffic, electricity, water and gas sprang to life again.

The state of siege which the government proclaimed Friday, when Germany invaded Poland, and the state of war which began Sunday

SHARES ROCKET IN WALL ST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—Stocks and commodity markets, propelled by the fastest war-boom buying rushes in the history of the exchanges, swept upward today.

In the share list gains ran from $1 to $19 for favorites as trading opened after the holiday and for the first time since the general outbreak of European hostilities. Blocks of 1000 to 40,000 shares changed hands in the stampede, with the ticker tape as much as three minutes behind during the greater part of the session.

Transfers for the day were around 7,000,000 shares, one of the biggest turnovers since July 21, 1933. There was an occasional slowdown as profits were cashed and, near the final hour, top marks were substantially reduced in many cases.

Steels, coppers, aircrafts, oils, sugars, electrical equipments, chemicals, farm implements, zincs and motors were among the favorites.

Wheat again bounded the limit permitted in a day's trading of five cents a bushel at Chicago, Winnipeg and Minneapolis, and raw materials generally surged upward, both food and industrial.

Buying orders appeared at the opening of the exchange in such volume for some of the steels that specialists were not able to straighten out their books and make an opening price until an hour later.

'Artificial Fog' Is Last Word in Smoke Screens

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—The "artificial fog" laid over Paris today could be some new defense chemical, but is believed by U. S. chemical warfare officers here to be the usual smoke-screen, which has been highly developed since the World War.

This screen is made usually by spraying liquid carbon tetrachloride in the air. The spray gives off a dense, nonpoisonous smoke. If the concentration of smoke is not too dense there is little discomfort.

TODAY'S WEATHER

LOCAL—Fair and cooler tonight and Wednesday; moderate to fresh northwest winds.

CONNECTICUT, RHODE ISLAND, NEW HAMPSHIRE AND VERMONT—Fair and cooler tonight and Wednesday.

MAINE—Showers this afternoon, followed by fair and cooler tonight and Wednesday, except for showers in extreme east portion tonight.

U-Boat Shells Sinking Athenia; Boston Man Tells of Sea Horror

GALWAY, Ireland, Sept. 5 (AP)—The master of the stricken British liner Athenia, sunk Sunday, said on his arrival here today that his ship "was hit by a torpedo which went through the galley and into the engine room, causing heavy loss of life.

GREENOCK, Scotland, Sept. 5 (AP)—Shaken and weeping, 600 survivors of the torpedoed British liner Athenia arrived here today. Two hundred of those arriving here were injured, among them an undetermined number of Americans and Canadians.

As the rescue work went on no one could say definitely how many had been killed or drowned in the disaster. One rumor said 90 had died. Some said the figure was far greater and pointed out that a score or more must have drowned when the propeller of the Norwegian rescue ship Knut Nelson shattered a lifeboat full of women.

The captain, James Cook, was brought here by the Norwegian steamer Knut Nelson with 430 other survivors of the first submarine disaster of the European war.

Among them was Dr. John Kirk of Boston, Mass., who said:

"My wife was killed in the explosion, and all I want to know now is whether my two children who were traveling with us are safe."

SHELL DOOMED SHIP

Captain Cook said that immediately after the torpedo was fired, the submarine rose to the surface and shelled the Athenia.

"One shell carried away the mainmast," he related.

"It was evidently aimed at the wireless room, but missed its mark."

He called witnesses to tell newspaper men that the torpedo was fired at a range of 800 to 1000 yards on the port side of the vessel.

About 250 Americans were among those brought here. Many wore night clothes and blankets—36 hours after the disaster. The Norwegian vessel carried no regular physician; so two doctors went out last night from Galway to meet the Knut Nelson.

KILLED IN BLAST?

An improvised hot food depot at the dock was opened by an emergency committee at the direction of the Bishop of Galway. A preparatory college building was used as a receiving station, providing clothing.

Members of the Knut Nelson's crew said many of the Athenia's passengers were killed when the ship's boiler exploded after the torpedo had struck.

The injured brought in by the Knut Nelson were being cared for in Galway Central Hospital. Convents, schools and hotels took in the uninjured.

NO PANIC ON SHIP

Because there were only 20 berths on the Knut Nelson, some of the injured lay on improvised beds on deck.

One officer said he saw the periscope of the submarine just before the torpedo struck.

Other officers and members of the crew said they saw a line of smoke rising from the water off the port side just before the disaster. The smoke described a complete circle over the surface of the water.

Capt. Cook said he did not know

Athenia Toll

LONDON, Sept. 5 (INS)—Six hundred survivors of the sinking of the British liner Athenia off Scotland arrived in Greenock, Scotland, today as 430 were being taken to Galway, Ireland. This accounted for 1030 survivors of the 1347 reported aboard the ship, leaving 317 to be listed as dead, missing or on unidentified and unreported rescue vessels.

CRUISE ENDED—Arriving in Boston aboard the S. S. Excambion, Katheryn J. Coen of Clifton, N. J., has her baggage checked by customs official. The liner's passenger list was 118, ten of whom were picked up at Gibralter after being stranded there when the Conte de Savoia was held at Naples.

BOSTON DOCTOR'S WIFE LOSES LIFE ON LINER ATHENIA

At least one of 45 New Englanders homeward bound on the British liner Athenia died when the vessel was torpedoed 200 miles off Scotland, it became known today with the landing of survivors in Ireland and Scotland.

Only 12 of the New Englanders had been checked as survivors, but the check is still far from complete and others are expected to be added to this list.

Dr. John Kirk of Boston, among survivors landed at Galway, Ire., from the Norwegian steamer Knute Nelson, said on his arrival:

"My wife was killed in the explosion, and all I want to know now is whether my two children who were traveling with us are safe."

OTHER N. E. SURVIVORS

In addition to Dr. Kirk, other New Englanders checked as survivors include the following:

Mrs. Hessie Hislop of Julian st., Dorchester.

Mrs. Ida Bartlett Mowry, Providence, socialite.

Eleanor and Margaret Capron Mowry, her daughters.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Alton of Worcester.

T. E. Finley, Jr., teacher at the Loomis School, Windsor, Ct.

Mrs. Mildred S. Finley, his wife.

Mildred Finley, their daughter.

All these, with the exception of Dr. Kirk, were landed at Glasgow, Scotland, while still other survivors were taken to Greenock, Scotland.

MRS. M. PALFREY DEXTER
Reported Safe

No Dr. John Kirk is listed in state records as practicing medicine or dentistry in Massachusetts.

At the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, however, officials said it was possible that the Athenia survivor had studied medicine there. Records showed that a John Kirk had been a student at the college several years ago.

WORCESTER PAIR SAFE

Today Mrs. Alton's husband, Dr. Benjamin H. Alton, prominent physician of Worcester, received a cablegram from his wife and daughter which read:

"Safe in Glasgow. Well and cheery."

Athenia's passenger list disclosed that among the 45 New Englanders hurrying home from the war zone aboard this liner were a Boston socialite couple on their honeymoon, a well known Smith College woman professor, a Brown University educator and many prominent in social and professional life.

The honeymoon couple are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Dexter of Marlboro st. and Beverly, the bride the former Mianne Palfrey of the famous tennis family. They were wed in Brookline only a month ago.

Both were reported safe and aboard one of the rescue ships, according to an overseas amateur radio flash received by a Lawrence radio amateur, and relayed by him to Dexter's mother, Mrs. Franklin Dexter of Beverly.

Mrs. Dexter, who once teamed with her famous sister, Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, to win tennis laurels in tournaments throughout the East, is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club. Dexter, a graduate of Harvard, '28, now practises law in Boston.

Dexter's mother, at her Beverly estate yesterday, said the newly married couple had originally planned to remain in Europe for several months.

The New England passengers aboard the torpedoed vessel also included Prof. Margaret L. Rooke of Smith College, a professor of Italian languages and literature, who was returning to Northampton after a sabbatical year in Italy and France.

A Simmons College graduate, Miss Jane A. Forte of Allerton rd., Newton Center, was also a passenger, and was returning after a two-month study tour of France, Switzerland and England. She made a particular study of modern dancing, preparing to resume her post as a dance instructor at Stephens College, Mo. Her father, Harry P. Forte, wealthy executive of a Boston manufacturing firm, and her mother were preparing to meet their daughter in New York when they received the alarming news of the torpedoing and sinking of the Athenia.

A Boston newspaper artist, Gordon Hansen, 34, of Everett st., Wollaston, also was aboard the doomed ship. He was returning from a two-months' vacation in Norway.

Also aboard the Athenia were a father and son from Kittery, Me., Charles Prince, Sr., and Charles, Jr. The father is an engineer at the Portsmouth navy yard and the son is a recent graduate of Traite high school in Kittery. The European trip was his father's graduation gift to the boy, and both had been visiting friends in England.

PLANNED TO SAIL

Listed as a passenger was Adolph John Leocha, 23, of Claremont, N. H., who was returning from a visit with relatives near Warsaw, Poland.

Two young art students, graduates of the Museum School of Fine Arts in Boston last year, were also reported on the passenger list of the Athenia. They are John Bernard of Somerville and Thomas Fielder, a native of Maine.

They sailed together for Europe last June, travelling on school scholarships to continue their art studies.

MOTHER STILL HOPES

"I have not given up hope for my son's safety," said the Somerville youth's mother, Mrs. Herman Bernard.

"After all, I must wait until the final reports about the survivors are made, and I pray to God that John is among them.

"I feel that everything will turn

2 BAY STATE FILM STARS TO MARRY

ANN NAGEL
Marriage to Mend Broken Love

Two beautiful Massachusetts girls, who won their way to film stardom, will be altar-bound, it was reported today in Hollywood.

They are red-haired Ann Nagel, convent-bred Jamaica Plain girl, and slender Nancy Kelly of Lowell, 17-year-old star who made her screen debut at the age of four.

Ann is expected to wed Pierce Garrett, handsome Los Angeles broker—when his divorce becomes final in November—while Nancy soon is to be Mrs. Edmund O'Brien.

It took Nancy Kelly 13 years and 52 pictures to reach screen stardom, and that is most of a lifetime for a girl just 17.

CAMERAS KEPT BUSY

Born in Lowell, the daughter of Jack Kelly and Nan Walsh, a former actress, before she was five she was known as "America's most photographed child."

She fooled the awkward age of the early teens by hiding behind a radio microphone, taking ingenue parts. In July, 1938, her beauty and ability came to the attention of Producer Darryl Zanuck, and from then on her rise was rapid.

STARTED AS MODEL

The titian-haired Ann was born in Jamaica Plain, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis F. Nagel, of the Jamaicaway, and was graduated in 1932 from Notre Dame Academy in the Fenway.

Three years of modelling and acting in small parts brought her the first film contract at the age of 19.

A year later love came into her life and she eloped to Yuma, Ariz., with Ross Alexander, promising young movie juvenile. The marriage ended in tragedy a few months later when Alexander took his own life.

Passing time has healed the wounds of this tragic experience and Ann is looking forward now to a happy married life with her husband-to-be.

Find Looted Safe In Brookline Park

Its door smashed, a 500-pound safe from which all money had been taken, was fond by Brookline police today near Leverett Pond on the Brookline parkway.

Investigation disclosed that the safe was taken last night from the Mattapan square branch of the Boston Edison Company. A checkup was begun to determine the amount of cash taken.

U. S. Proclamation Setting Neutrality Signed by President

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (INS)—President Roosevelt today formally proclaimed to the world the neutrality of the United States in Europe's great war.

The proclamation was issued under international law and was expected to be followed shortly by another pronouncement which would impose an embargo on shipment of U. S. arms, ammunition and implements of war to the belligerent powers.

The President signed the proclamation in his executive office in the White House shortly after 1 p. m. Before it takes official effect, however, it will have to be countersigned by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the official State Department seal placed on it.

HULL MUST SIGN

Hull, who witnessed the signing, immediately left the White House to go across the street to the State Department, where he will replace his signature on it and reveal the text of the document.

Travel of American citizens to Europe was virtually halted today by sweeping State Department restrictions.

Only "imperative necessity" will permit citizens to make the eastward Atlantic voyage. The order, issued swiftly after the sinking of the British liner Athenia on which some Americans were traveling, coincided with discussion of plans to convoy American vessels returning from European ports.

VOID PASSPORTS

The State Department action voided passports already issued unless documentary evidence is submitted that a trip to Europe is absolutely necessary.

The question of using naval vessels to convoy American merchant ships has not gone beyond the discussion stage, officials said.

President Roosevelt talked the matter over with Charles Edison, acting navy secretary, and Admiral Harold Stark, chief of naval operations.

Edison later expressed the view the convoy question was complicated, involving the problem whether fast merchant ships would be better off unguarded or slowing up to remain close to escorts.

30,000 SEEK PASSAGE

Edison indicated to reporters it would be best for the Atlantic naval squadron to remain close to American shores. Asked the reason, he said:

"Well, you have seen reports of submarines in the Caribbean, haven't you?"

He emphasized, however, that the Navy Department has no official word of the presence of such craft in the area.

Of the 70,000 Americans believed to be in Germany, Britain, France, Poland and Italy, a well-informed official estimated that approximately 30,000 want quick removal homeward.

CANADA READY FOR AIR RAIDS

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (Canadian Press)—Federal and provincial air raid precautions committees joined forces today against possible enemy attempts upon Canada as the Dominion rushed war preparations and crowds of young men besieged recruiting offices.

A government spokesman disclosed co-operation of Provinces most likely to be affected by an enemy attack from the air had been obtained and provincial committees now were in operation.

There was no indication that enlistment would be opened for an overseas force.

However, recruiting was under way for the Canadian Active Service Force and the sounding of bugles, the thrones of young men and the increasing number of khaki-clad soldiers in the streets gave Canada's capital city a war-like appearance.

Some units began recruiting yesterday, more followed suit today and others swing into line tomorrow. Officials estimate 300,000 to 400,000 men are needed to bring the C. A. S. F. to full strength.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King summoned his cabinet today to make plans for the emergency session of Parliament called for Thursday to decide the form of Canada's co-operation.

Rumors, lacking official comment, have been heard that King would seek the collaboration of other political parties in the formation of a national or union government.

But for the crisis there would have been a general election this fall. Some cabinet changes are rumored.

Atlantic Fleet To Remain Here

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (INS)—The Atlantic fleet of the U. S. Navy will be kept close to the nation's shores, Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison revealed today after a significant reference to reports that German submarines are cruising the Caribbean.

Edison said that the government would make a decision "within the next 24 hours" on whether American warships would be used to convoy U. S. merchant ships bringing refugee nationals from the European war zone.

U. S. 'REFUGEES'

LISTENING TO RADIO WAR REPORTS

AMERICAN IMPORTER PASSENGERS AT EASE
Game of Cards Brings Many Laughs

HOMEWARD BOUND—These many American citizens, passengers on the American Importer, arrive in Boston from waring European countries, and bring with them snapshots taken during the crossing. Passengers mingled freely and became friendly due to crowded accommodations.

WAR REFUGEES ARE LANDED HERE

With scores of returning Americans jammed into every foot of available space, the United States Lines steamer American Importer arrived in East Boston today after an anxious voyage from Glasgow.

But for a quirk of fate, at least 50 of the Importer's passengers would have been aboard the ill-fated British liner.

Only an 11th hour decision by the shipping company, throwing open emergency quarters in response to urgent pleas of the marooned American colony, permitted the embarkment at Liverpool of 65 passengers, most of whom otherwise would have sailed on the Athenia.

Friends and relatives, besieging shipping offices in Glasgow for any passage home to America, were separated as some boarded the Importer, many more embarked on the Athenia, and the great majority were forced to wait for future bookings.

BAN RADIO REPORTS

Assured that reports indicated some 1000 of the 1347 passengers and crew of the Athenia had been saved, the passengers exhibited obvious relief and a general lessening of tension.

Only a slight deviation in the ship's course marked the routine after radio reports were received just off Cape Race announcing the decision of Great Britain and France to enter the war.

That and the announcement that no messages would be flashed to shore betraying the ship's position.

Otherwise, the crossing under forced draft proved a tedious round of preparedness, with social activities sharply curtailed.

Bunks and makeshift cots were set up in lounges, lobbies and passageways. There were three rooms set apart as women's dormitories and a fourth designated for men.

A severe storm in mid ocean added to the confusion, as baggage and beds were tossed pell mell and sea sickness became general. Many persons passed sleepless nights, and a general air of increasing anxiety gripped the passengers.

In the hold of the ship, under heavy guard, was an estimated $15,000,000 in gold bullion shipped here by England to establish credit for purchases. The ship is principally engaged in carrying freight and in its cargo were 70,000 cases of whiskey.

Capt. John W. Anderson will take his ship to New York tonight, then sail again for England Friday, returning shortly thereafter with another group of 180 Americans.

Carrying ten passengers who, in effect, are refugees, the American Export liner Exmbion also put in today.

Of a passenger list of 118, ten of whom werepicked up at Gibraltar, most were cruise patrons. Those from Gibraltar, however, were stranded there when the Italian liner, Conte di Savoia was held in port at Naples. Coming from southern seas, none had much to say about the war.

International News Photograph service

STORK WILL VISIT HEDY LAMARR

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5—Hedy Lamarr, 23, dark-eyed glamour girl of the screen, and her husband, Gene Markey, movie writer and producer, expect a tiny "starlet" all their own early in 1940,, it was reported here today.

The happy couple, both previously married, eloped to Mexicali, Mexico, last March to climax a Finland romance which was fivalled only by the love of Clark Gable and Carole Lombard.

Hedy is the former wife of Fritz Mandl, wealthy European munitions manufacturer, and at 17 was the feminine star of the racy European film "Ecstasy," which for a time was banned in the United States. The picture caused such a stir that Mandl was reported to have purchased all available prints in an effort to destroy it.

Markey formerly was married to beautiful Joan Bennett, of the famous film family, who divorced him in June, 1937.

Embassy Staffs Cross Borders

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5 (AP)—The staffs of the German embassy to Paris and the French embassy to Berlin entered their respective homelands early today after exchanging trains in the Dutch frontier.

About 120 members of the German embassy, including women and children, were aboard the train from Paris Sunday night. The train was delayed to arrive at the time of the German train.

The members of the two embassies greeted each other cordially.

The train bearing Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, was still at Rheine, Germany, at 1 p. m. (8 a. m. E. S. T.) today, awaiting the London German embassy staff to reach Rotterdam aboard the Dutch steamer Batavia IV.

BELGIANS NAB PLANES

BRUSSELS, Sept. 5 (AP)—Two French airplanes were ordered to land near Mons early today after they were spotted by Belgian searchlights. The pilots, who were made prisoners, said they lost their way.

Chamberlain Sends Daladier Hope Massage

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain telegraphed Premier Daladier of France today that he was confident "right will prevail" in the conflict with Germany.

The text of the telegram:

"At this time when Great Britain and France are renewing their comradeship in arms to resist aggression and defend the cause of honorable feeling among nations, I send to you, and through you to the French people, the cordial greetings of the people of this country.

"Our hopes of peace which we sought so strenuously to preserve have been shattered by the wanton attack on Poland. Now side by side we both take up arms with the sure knowledge that no nations have ever entered a war in juster cause. I am confident that the sacrifices which we are prepared to make will not be in vain and that the right will prevail."

Catholics' Peace Unit Moves to U. S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—Headquarters of Pax Romana, International Federation of Catholic College Students dedicated to the promotion of peace, will be moved to the United States.

Because of war, delegates to the 18th international Congress voted here last night to transfer the headquarters from Fribourg, Switzerland, to the Catholic University in Washington. Catholic student leaders from 38 countries are at the congress.

Bulletins!

BERLIN, Sept. 4 (INS)—(Delayed by censor)—German observers on the Western front today reported that French troops along the entire line sent aloft hundreds of balloons carrying stencilled banners reading:

"We won't shoot if you don't.

The banners were still aloft at 9 p. m. Sunday night, the observers reported.

German soldiers, it was stated in Berlin, then raised makeshift signs saying they would not fire, either.

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (AP)—The supreme army command announced today that contrary to foreign reports "not a single shot had been fired on the Western front up to Sept. 5, 9 a. m. (4 a. m., Boston time). Likewise there have been no air attacks except the reported English raids at Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven."

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 5 (AP)—Reports were received here today that an unidentified steamer was sunk last night by an explosion off Falsterbo, southern Sweden.

The explosion was observed by a nearby lightship. The reports said apparently the vessel collided with a mine field.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Information was received in London today that the German ship Carl Fritzen had been sunk and that its crew was safe.

The Carl Fritzen, of 659 tons gross, was bound from Scheidam, The Netherlands, for Canada or Buenos Aires.

CAPETOWN, Sept. 5 (AP)—The assembly of the Union of South Africa, member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, defeated, 80 to 66, today a motion that its relations with belligerent countries "persist unchanged, as if no war was being waged." The assembly previously had adopted a proposal for severance of relations with Germany following a cabinet split over war policy.

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Sept. 5 (AP)—Wounded Slovak soldiers returning from the Polish frontier today said Slovaks were mixed with Germans as a second fighting line. Javorina, a pocket-size area taken from Slovakia last fall, was given up by Poles without firing a shot, they said, but they admitted the Poles fiercely contested the Slovak-German advances elsewhere along the mountainous border.

MOSCOW, Sept. 5 (AP)—An uncontirmed report today said the Soviet government had notified Zdanko Fierlinger, former Czecho-Slovak minister to Moscow, that Russia could no longer consider him a diplomatic representative. Fierlinger has been residing here with diplomatic status since Germany's liquidation of his homeland.

BUESNOS AIRES, Sept. 5 (AP)—An explosion occurred early today aboard the German passenger-cargo ship Monte Pascoal, moored at the Buenos Aires docks. No one was injured but the blast, caused considerable damage to the vessel.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (INS)—A violent explosion in a factory was reported at Friedrichshafen, Germany, this morning, said an Exchange Telegraph message from Zurich, (Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance, is the site of the main plant of the Zeppelin company, and former base for the transatlantic dirigibles.)

LONDON, Sept. 5 (INS)—Polish bombers reached Frankfurt-On-Oder, in eastern Germany, the Daily Express today said it was reported in Zurich, Switzerland. As a result air raid warnings were sounded in Berlin, according to the report, as German aircraft engaged the Poles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (INS)—The German government expressed lowering indignation today over reports that Poland has executed 31 of the Reich's "parachute troops," according to a radio report received in New York. Execution of the parachutists was termed a "gross violation of international law," according to the message.

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (INS)—A German seaplane brought down a British bomber on the Dogger Bank, 60 miles off the English coast in the North Sea and scene of a famous naval battle in the last war, it was announced today. The German pilot landed on the water, rescued the British pilot and took him prisoner, the announcement said.

WARSAW, Sept. 5 (INS)—An effective Polish counter-attack has taken place against German mechanized units in southern Poland near Bieradz, a Warsaw communique said tonight. The Germans, said the announcement, left behind a large number of tanks and trucks and a considerable number of prisoners were captured.

HAMBURG, Sept. 5 (AP via radio) — The official German radio reported today a Dutch freighter, carrying ore "which was possibly destined for Germany," was stopped by a British warship and escorted into Ramsgate harbor, England. The station ascribed its report to the Dutch newspaper, Algemeen Handelsblatt.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The ministry of labor assumed control today of all employment in Great Britain for the duration of the war. After a date to be specified employers may not engage or rehire employes without the ministry's approval.

PRAGUE, Sept. 5 (AP)—Twenty Jewish shops were raided and damaged by crowds today. Afterward police guarded the stores while crowds shouted anti-Jewish slogans.

CAPETOWN, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Union of South Africa's Parliament today voted to follow Britain's lead by breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany. Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, who led British Empire forces in capturing Germany's African possessions during the World War, was expected to form a new government succeeding that of Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog, who was defeated on the issue of breaking off relations.

TOKYO, Sept. 5 (AP)—Kensa Sawada, vice-minister of foreign affairs, notified the British, American, Italian, French, German and Polish diplomatic representatives today of Japan's decision to remain neutral in the European war.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — The world-wide broadcast of Pope Pius XII scheduled for Wednesday morning has been cancelled, according to a radio report from Rome.

British Warships Chase Germans to Cover; Sink One

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Great Britain's first blow at Germany—a spectacular bombing raid against the German fleet—was declared officially today to have been struck successfully.

The British Royal Air Force, a communique issued by the Ministry of Information said, scored direct hits with heavy bombs and damaged two German battleships severely. The German navy has only five.

The Royal Air Force bombers carried out the daring daylight raid yesterday afternoon against the German fleet at the entrance of the strategic Kiel Canal linking the North Sea with the Baltic.

The aerial attack followed a night mass flight of British aircraft showering northern and western Germany with 6,000,000 copies of a message to the German people.

The message blamed the war on German leadership and declared British people want to live in peace with the German people.

That British planes were able to carry out this big scale flight over German territory and return to their bases witnout casualties was hailed here as highly significant in view of frequent Nazi boasts of the impregnability of their aerial defenses.

The communique mentioned "some casualties" in the attack on the battleships. British newspapers published a German news agency report that five British bombers which had participated in the raid were brought down by anti-aircraft batteries.

"Several direct hits with heavy bombs were registered on a German battleship in Schilling Roads off Wilhelmshafen, which resulted in severe damage," said the information ministry communique.

"At Brunsbuttel, an attack on a battleship lying alongside the mole, caused heavy damage. During the operation, which was carried out in very unfavorable weather conditions, our aircraft encountered an air attack and anti-aircraft fire resulting in some casualties.

To have scored direct hits on the battleships, the British planes, it was believed here, must have plunged in power dives to a low altitude against enemy fire before dropping their heavy bombs.

The German navy's battleships are the 26,000 ton Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, completed last year, and the 10,000-ton "pocket" battleship, Deutschland, Admiral Scheer and Admiral Graf Spee, completed in 1933-1936.

MESSAGES FROM KING

The fleet, army and airforce received messages from King George in which the sovereign pointed out their grave responsibilities.

The British press pointedly contrasted Britain's first war action—the bombardment of the German war vessels—with the sinking of the British liner Athenia Sunday night—which Britain charged to a German torpedo.

Describing the daredevil attack of the British bombers on the German fleet, the Daily Mail said:

"This raid on a purely naval objective was a gallant exploit, true to the best British traditions."

The newspaper added, "the sinking of the Athenia shows that Hitler has at once abandoned all pretense of keeping to the last vestiges of humanity and decency which may be observed in war."

The British Government intensified efforts to reach the German people over the heads of the Nazi government by broadcasting at intervals in German a message from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Chamberlain declared, "we are not fighting against you, the German people, for whom we have no bitter feeling, but against a tyrannous regime which has betrayed not only its own people, but the whole of western civilization and all that we hold dear."

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

NAZI SHIPS CHASED BY BRITISH

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5 (AP)—Two cruisers from Great Britain's West Indies fleet, the sisterships Ajax and Exeter, had German shipping holed up today in South Atlantic ports, or seeking to outrace them for the safety of neutral harbors.

The Ajax opened war-time operations at dawn Sunday by sinking the German cargo ship Olinda after first taking off the 42 members of the crew in two life boats that had to maneuver through heavy seas.

The German freighter Poseidon dropped anchor at Mar Del Plata, Argentina. Her captain said, "several warships, apparently British," had tried to capture her.

THREE REACH ECUADOR

The German merchantman Leipzig steamed into the harbor of Guayaquill, Ecuador, on the west coast, and found the Cerigo, Quito and Bogota, also of German registry, already there.

The German ship Engoland anchored in Puerto Colombia Bay after receiving orders to head for the nearest safe port.

Unreported recently, but known to have been somewhere along the eastern coast, were the crack German liners Cap Norte and General Artigas, as well as the Schawademn Afrika, Antonio Delfino and Madrid.

No reports were available on movements of British shipping in these waters, either, due to admiralty fears based on reports of German submarine activity.

TO REMAIN NEUTRAL

All this activity was reminiscent of the early days of the World War, when German warships sank the British cruisers Good Hope and Monmouth off the Chilean coast, November 1, 1914, and Britain retaliated more than a month later by sinking four German cruisers in a battle off the Falkan Islands.

Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil and Chile officially proclaimed themselves neutral yesterday. The Argentine government ordered a ban on exports of fuel and decided to permit any foreign vessel to load only sufficient fuel to reach its first ports outside the Rio De La Plata.

Nazi Ship Declares $1,000,000 Oil Cargo Here

Apparently intending to stay within the shelter of the port of Boston, officers of the German tanker Pauline Friedrich visited the Customs House today to declare their $1,000,000 cargo of lubricating oils, originally destined for their Nazi homeland.

The ship slipped into port Saturday night, with a 48-hour grace period before she had to declare her cargo or leave the port. It was expected that the oil would be sold in the United States, and any attempt to run the blockade around German ports with it would be abandoned.

As Capt. Henrich Heitzman and a German consular official arrived at the Custom House, treasury officials declared the Nazi vessel would be accorded the same treatment as any foreign vessel in peace time.

John G. Hall & Co., Boston agents for the tanker, declined to reveal what fate was in store for ship and cargo.

BREMEN NOW SEA RAIDER?

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 5 (INS)—Flight of the North German Lloyd liner Bremen became today one of the few topics which could divert attention from major movements on the Polish and French fronts in the second World War.

She now is two days overdue in German waters, and although she may be captured or sunk by the British navy before these lines appear, professional circles in Paris are convinced she still is at large and is on her way to some remote uninhabitated harbor, to meet perhaps one of Germany's pocket battleships which will equip her as a commerce raider.

Such activities would recall the German cruiser Emden, which having been on the high seas when the last European war began, raided audaciously and sank tens of thousands of tons of enemy vessels before she was finally caught.

HAD HIDDEN GUN?

The Bremn was searched long enough in New York to make her captain curse and threaten suit for damages, but according to professional circles here she was not searched long enough.

Men who profess to possess authentic information—not hunches—say that naval circles have been positively informed that the Bremen was carrying a complete complement of six-inch gnus concealed in her bulkheads in such a way that no one but a naval architect could discover them in the comparatively short time devoted to the vessel's examination.

When the Bremen left New York it was first reported here she was being followed by the British cruiser Berwick, but it was pointed out that if that were the case her capture should have been reported by now.

Professional observers here consider it likely now that the Bremen, which is faster than most cruisers, could have forced her speed to 32 knots for seven or eight hours and may have given her pursuers the slip during the night.

In that case, she may have looked for shelter in one among the hundreds of small bays along the coasts of Labrador or Greenland, where she could broke out her own six-inch guns and mount them upon special fittings which naval men say were either built into the vessel when launched or afterward installed by Hitler's order.

Think Liner Bremen Now in Haven Race

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 5 (AP)—With seven German steamers already tied up in Mexican ports, there were reports today the German transatlantic liner Bremen also might be heading into neutral Mexican waters for refuge.

The German passenger ship Orinoco, the German oil tanker Emmy Friedrich and the German freighters Rhein, Idarwald and Phrygia are anchored at Tampico.

The liner Columbus, after disembarking passengers who were on a West Indies cruise at Havana, now is anchored outside the Bay of Veracruz, while the freighter Hameln is in the harbor there.

The German freighter Arsuch, carrying a large supply of newsprint for the government-controlled newsprint agency, was reported to have anchored at Havana.

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

He Who Hesitates Is Lost

MUST STAY NEUTRAL-- SEN. WALSH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (INS)—Sounding a warning against "floods" of expected propaganda, Senator David I. Walsh (D), of Massachusetts, tonight demanded strict neutrality for the United States in the European conflict, including continuation of the arms embargo to aid belligerents a provision which the administration has opposed.

He termed the administration's proposal to lift the arms embargo "the rankest unneutrality."

Defending the arms embargo provision, Walsh, in a radio address on a National Broadcasting Company network, declared many contend the United States is "stripping" France and England of needed munitions because if the embargo was lifted, their navies could restrain others from obtaining war materials from this country.

"This may be true," Walsh said. "By prohibiting trading in arms and munitions which would enrich us and then plunge us into war, we may be withholding the advantage which superior sea power has given the allies. But we are remembering what is to our own advantage — namely, keeping out of war.

"We must think not in terms of advantage to other nations, but advantage to our own people, and particularly to those who would be the sacrificial victims of any war which might follow by furnishing arms and munitions to one set of European belligerents and denying them to another.

HUB FOLK BACK FROM WAR PERIL

A thousand-dollar bill tossed across a counter in Paris as a bonus for accommodations—and as casually tossed back . . . A minister stranded in war-torn Europe, with $15 in cash to get home on . . . and milling, restless, frightened thousands, moving from shipping office to shipping office, pleading, begging, weeping for a chance to go home.

Such is Paris now that war has come, a preview of which was brought home to Boston today by Atty. Joseph M. McDonough of 106 Melville ave., Dorchester, Mrs. Ida McDonough, his wife, and Eilen, their five-year-old daughter.

And it was Ellen who saved the day in Paris for the McDonoughs.

And left behind, unable at the moment to obtain passage, was Miss Mary Goods, a daughter of ex-Mayor Timothy J. Goods of Cambridge . . . Last reports were that she had obtained a ticket on a tramp steamer out of Amsterdam.

ITALY HALTS SHIP

Thomas Pappas, a Boston merchant, and William J. Hells, angels of mercy to many who were without funds or friends, also returned on the same boat as the McDonoughs, the Empress of Australia, which docked yesterday in Quebec. Frances ("Peaches") Browning, Heenan Hynes and Cornelius Vanderbile, Jr., were also on the boat.

The McDonoughs left here July 29 for a Mediterranean cruise. All went weell until, on the return journey, they and all others were unceremoniously dumped on the docks at Genoa when the Italian government tied up the Conte Di Savoia.

"One girl, in third class," said Mrs. McDonough, "was crying. She only had $2.. Mary Goode told her she would help her."

"'Get out of here!' the consul told us," said Mr. McDonough, "'Get to a seaport. Get to France. Get to Paris!'"

"GET TO PARIS"

They left behind them the minister who had only the $15. There was no refund of passage money by the Italian line.

"Conditions in Paris are terrible," McDonough continued. "Hundreds spend their days going from office to office. I saw a California millionaire slip an agent a $1000, and he tossed it back at him. Hundreds are stranded, and the Paris embassy is jammed all the time.

"We stayed there for three days, and then Eilen turned the trick for us."

BABY IS 'PASSPORT'

His name is "Smith," which is almost anonymous, and he's the manager for the Canadian Pacific in Paris. Ellen won his heart.

"Because you've a baby, and only because of that, mind," he told the McDonoughs, "you can get on the boat train to Cherbourg. There may be a cancellation."

There was, and they were allowed aboard the ship. It returned by way of the Arctic circle, amid fog and icebergs. All windows and ports were blackened, but, it was a gay trip.

"Vanderbilt," says McDonough, "had a short wave radio, and kept telling us London was bombed. The captain took it away from him."

Then, fervently, prayerfully, McDonough concluded:

"God, this is a wonderful country! . . . "

Allies Have Edge in Military And Economic Conditions

By W. W. CHAPLIN
International News Service Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (INS)—An impartial survey of key statistics on military and economic conditions in the European countries at war indicates no single point in which Germany is superior to her combined foes.

In population, from which must be furnished both soldiers and workers behind the lines, Germany has only 90 million people. There are 124 million people in Great Britain, France and Poland, with a dominion and colonial reserve to raise that figure to 622 millions.

Germany's land armies, regulars and reserves, total four million, of which two and a half million are already under arms. The Allies have eight million regulars and reserves, with a five and a half million actually under arms.

The Germany army has 17 classes which never received extended training and the army is under-officered by about 30,000. The French and Polish armies, bulk of the allied force, are all extensively training soldiers and they are fully officered.

7000 GERMAN PLANES

There are perhaps 7000 German planes, although this estimate is high and there is little likelihood that more than 4000 are fighting ships ready for battle. The allies have more than 10,000 planes, but not all of these are "up to the minute" models.

The German navy consists of but 541,023 tons against a tonnage of 2,893,394 for the united allied fleet. That means an early blockade of Germany and virtual isolation from possible supplies.

Germany's gold reserves, for trading in world markets, are negligibile. Those of the allies are approximately four and a half billion dollars.

The allies also have investments in the United States valued at approximately three billion dollars and Canada has investments there of one billion, 400 millions. Germany has no large scale investments in America.

Germany's credit is non-existent, forcing her to depend entirely on barter. That works in some cases in peacetime, Germany trading manufactured products for raw materials as she arranged to do with Russia. In wartime all Germans not fighting will be needed to supply the troops and there will be no labor surplus to manufacture barter goods.

The allies credit is unlimited except as restricted by such legislation as the Johnson Act in America, which forbids loans to war debtors. This may be circumvented as indicated by announcements from Washington that the Johnson Act does not regulate loans through the RFC or the government export-import bank.

FRANCE SELF-SUFFICIENT

In peacetime Germans was only about 75 per cent self-sufficient for foodstuffs and before war was declared rigid food rationing had to be resorted to. With a blockade in progress and agriculture turned over to women and the aged a famine might be suffered.

France is almost completely self-sufficient for food and Poland is largely so. England depends for most of her foods on outside sources but because she commands the seas this supply will not be interrupted.

Germany has large reserves of oil but her mechanized army will call for vast amounts. When the reserve is gone only sources open are Rumania, which has declared neutrality, and Russia, which needs almost all she produces for her own industrial machine.

Oil supply for the Allies is unlimited from British oil fields in Iran and Iraq.

Victory in a general war might hang on transportation facilities, for the quick movement of troops and supplies. The government operated roads of the Allies are in top condition and fully equipped. In the World War the splendid German railroads gave the central powers a distinct advantage over the Allies.

N. E. READY TO PLAY WAR ROLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—In safes of 1500 New England industrial plants are sealed orders for planes, munitions, clothing and all articles of warfare.

At a moment's notice under the War Department's mobilization program for over 10,000 United States industries, production on a wartime scale will begin.

About one-seventh of the plants awaiting the day army officials direct that the sealed orders be carried out are in New England and are considered the key to carrying the early load in equipping the Army and Navy.

Although manufacturers are not certain as to the contents of the orders, military experts conferred with them before issuing the confidential directions and estimated the production of each plant could maintain on short notice.

The importance of the industrial mobilization plan was emphasized by Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff, who declared recently:

"Today man-power is definitely secondary to the munitions and machines that help the army fight."

He disclosed the program was the result of 18 years planning by army, navy and industrial representatives.

The Army-Navy munitions board now has direct supervision of the program, but in case of war the War Resources Board, of which President Karl Compton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology is a member, will be the nation's policy making agency.

About half of the plants in New England with sealed orders are in Massachusetts, a total of 764. In Connecticut there are 393 plants; Rhode Island, 163; New Hampshire, 59; Vermont, 38 and Maine, 74.

To defend this vast industrial area the Navy already has selected Quonset Point, R. I., for a naval air base, and the army is reported favorable to Chicopee, Mass., for its northeastern air base.

Artillery defenses along the New England coast will be greatly increased during the next two years, informed sources said, and Congress at the last session approved expansion of both Fort Devens, Mass., and Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont.

Sees $3.70 Cut In Woburn Tax

Mayor William E. Kane, the stormy petrel of Woburn, announced today that he estimated the tax rate would decrease by $3.70 this year.

He recognized that the city employes' suing the city might win, and tactily admitted loss of those suits might reduce the reduction by more than $1.

He said the reduction would place Woburn in the company of such "rich towns" as Winchester, Belmont and Brookline.

German Consul Enjoys the Sun

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's World War commander, Capt. Fritz Weidemann, German consul general here, told reporters today he was not concerned with "political matters."

JAP SHIPS CRASH IN FOG

AOKYO, Sept. 5 (INS)—The Japanese steamers Rio de Janeiro Maru and Kagu Maru collided during a fog southwest of the Aleutian Islands, according to a wireless message received in Tokyo. Passengers and crews were rescued.

All three large pieces illustrated are included, the massive divan (82 inches long); the matching lounge chair; and the contrasting channel back wing chair.

The set is covered in fine quality boucle, a fabric far superior to frieze because of its closer weave, richer appearance and longer wear. Choose your own colors from wine, claret, garnet, chocolate, royal blue, jade-green or rust.

Notice the handsomely carved Queen Anne legs, the molded base which covers three sides of every piece, the smart trim tailored appearance.

'TARGET' IS GIVEN DIVORCE

SALEM, Sept. 5 One's lap is hardly a proper receptacle for a pan of hot potatoes, and one's ankle is no place to catch a bronze bookend

So contended Roland Davis of Lynn before Judge John V. Phelan in probate court today—and the judge agreed to the extent of granting a decree, uncontested by Mrs. Janet L. Davis, also of Lynn.

Davis, who identified himself as "a two-time loser twice married told the court that their troubles began in 1937, after five years of marriage, when she found somebody else. From that time on, he said, it was just one quarrel after another.

Mrs. Martha Bolger of Spring st. Lynn told Judge Phelan that her husband, Leonard J. Bolger, went to New York in 1931 and she hadn't seen him since. She knows he's still there though she added, because his sister told her so. They were married Jan. 25 1928, and lived for a time in Swampscott. The last she heard she said, he was still looking for a job.

Mrs. Rose Harris said that Pedro L. Harris, a sailor, was also in New York so far as she knew. In addition to his alleged desertion, he was cruel—particularly so, she said when her sister sent her $5 for food, and he took it. When she chided him, he struck her, she testified.

Beatings Win Wife Divorce

Testifying that when her husband hit her she hit him back, an attractive South End wife denied in Suffolk probate court today that she caused family quarrels by "wanting to be boss."

The witness, Mrs. Louise M. Spencer of West Newton st., was granted an uncontested divorce from Ralph F. Spencer of Newton.

"First time my husband hit me was when I refused to go to a relative's home for Christmas dinner," Mrs. Spencer told Judge Frederick J. Dillon. "I hit him back, but he beat me again in later quarrels. Once when I insisted on going to a theater, he dragged me home and kicked me."

Unemployed Hope For Ct. War Boom

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Sept. 5 (AP) Unemployed, hoping for a war boom like that experienced here 25 years ago, flocked to the employment offices of the Remington Arms Co. and the Sikorsky aircraft plant today. Neither concern, however, was hiring any extra help.

PROPAGANDA WAR BEING CONDUCTED IN MANY NATIONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—The war of Propaganda—directed to all nations of the world—was on today in wordy profusion.

In a babel of tongues, claims and counter-claims, denials and accusations were hurled across the air of the world over shortwave channels to millions of homes.

And from the air, too, a storm of propaganda showered from airplanes dropping pamphlets instead of bombs.

From Germany and Polish short wave stations, broadcast sometimes in English, sometimes in German, atrocity stories dinned in ears of listeners. In Germany, the death penalty may be invoked against anyone caught listening to hostile broadcasts.

Against the background of war's death and destruction, the weavers of Propaganda produce this pattern, picked up in this country by everlistening monitor engineers of the American networks.

From Warsaw, an official broadcaster charged German fliers with dropping poison candies and balloons containing poison gas. Said the broadcaster:

"Many children were casualties when they grabbed for these balloons."

Germany—through its radio station DJD—scorned this report and countered with an atrocity story of the finding in Polish territory of the body of a German aviator whose eyes, it said, had been hacked from their sockets.

Prime Minister Chamberlain of England has gone on the air via the short wave, to tell the German people—in German—that they have no fight with the German people—but against Hitler.

Even the United States has been made the object of discussion via these chats to the people. In this manner, the German people were told by DJB that:

"Suspicion exists as to the reliability of American newspaper stories. America's President Roosevelt asked reporters to stick to facts. Many Americans had thought their press reliable, but this is not the case. In the last few days they have been more unreliable than before."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (INS)—The federal government has taken unprecedented steps to fortify the American public against war-time propaganda on the radio bands.

Control of radio, as the mightiest new instrument of propagandists within and beyond the national borders, will be thoroughly defined in President Roosevelt's forthcoming neutrality proclamation, a high State Department official said.

A condition of emergency with regard to broadcasting will be declared as part of Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation, it was strongly indicated.

In extension of the Presidential proclamation, Chairman James Lawrence Fly disclosed the Federal Communications Commission is about to draft a general statement of policy for United States broadcasters.

Girl, 15, Helps Row Boatload From Athenia

GREENOCK, Scotland, Sept. 5 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Brenda Chapman and her brother, Thomas, 13, of Detroit, survivors of the Athenia, told today of being awakened when the torpedo struck. Brenda said:

"I didn't try to change my pajamas, but helped Tommy up to the deck. Then I helped row the boat."

Doctor's Wife Athenia Victim

out all right, even though I have not heard anything from my boy. If there was any way he could get word to me he would have done so already.

"I'm sure that I will hear from him as soon as he is able to contact me."

The husband and father of the Hislop trio from Dorchester, among the survivors, is John D. Hislop, manager of a soda fountain at the South Station.

He reported for work yesterday, but was so unnerved by the news of the catastrophe that he was obliged to return home to await word of his wife and children.

Hislop said his wife and children had sailed June 24 for Belfast, Ireland, to visit relatives his wife had not seen for 17 years.

Two other Rhode Island residents believed aboard were Mr. and Mrs. George Blythe, of Conimicut, R. I. They had been vacationing in Scotland and planned to return to America early in September.

Also reported aboard the Athenia was Mrs. W. H. Sharp of Vancouver, who has been visiting in Winchester with her daughter-in-law, Dr. F. H. L. Taylor, well-known woman physician.

Dr. Taylor said Mrs. Sharp had been visiting relatives in Glasgow, Scotland, and had left Scotland two weeks ago.

She had planned to take up residence at the Taylor home and remain for a year. Her husband was awaiting her arrival when news of the ship's sinking came.

Four summer residents of Nantucket were believed to be on the ship, a cablegram received by relatives indicated. They are Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeWitt Smith, their daughter, Jeanette, and Caroline Stuart, all of Plainfield, N. J. They left Nantucket on Aug. 8, bound for South Africa.

A former South Hadley girl, a bride of 18 months, was also reported aboard. She is Mrs. George L. Bird, now of Syracuse, who was honeymooning with her husband, Dr. George L. Bird, former newspaper man and now a professor of journalism at Syracuse University. Mrs. Bird was formerly Miss Jeanne Pinnard.

A student passenger aboard the Athenia is Ralph W. Child of Brockton, a senior at Bates College in Lewiston, Me. Child went to Europe to attend a Y. M. C. A. conference at Amsterdam, as the representative of Bates.

Relatives received word that Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Nicol of North Andover and their 9-year-old daughter were returning aboard the Athenia. In their party were Mr. and Mrs. Pringle of Lawrence and Miss Martha Stewart of Andover. Nicol and Pringle were employed in Lawrence factories, and Miss Stewart was employed by an Andover physician.

50,000 Czechs to Help Poles Fight Against Foes

WARSAW, Sept. 5 (INS)—Twenty-five thousand Czechoslovakian men living in exile in Poland have been authorized to join the Poles in fighting off the German invasion.

President Ignace Mosciki signed a decree legalizing the Czechs' action as part of the Polish army and placing it under the command of General Pertula.

The Legion already had recruited 20,000 Czechoslovaks who fled their native country when it was dismembered and destroyed by Adolf Hitler. Additional Czechoslovak forces were expected to enlist.

HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS KILL 13

Thirteen persons lost their lives in holiday week-end accidents in New England, ten of them victims of automobile crashes, a survey revealed today. Two persons were drowned, and another met death before a speeding train.

At Ipswich, Mrs Camela Bainum Barker, 31, wife of socially prominent John Barker Jr., Boston attorney, died of injuries suffered in an automobile crash.

At Lancaster, N. H., Mrs. Elizabeth Hutchins, 74, died at Lancaster Hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident.

John R. Coelho, 14, of North Dartmouth, drowned in Turner's pond when a skiff upset. At North Bellingham, John Thibault, two, drowned in Charles River Mill pond, apparently falling in the water while playing.

FALL KILLS CHILD

Gertrude Reise, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reise, of Newport, died of injuries suffered when she fell from her father's auto.

Collision of two autos in Scarboro, Me., caused the death of Mr. and Mrs. Leona Vigue both 81, of Waterville, and critical injury to three other persons.

One accident claimed three lives. An automobile containing Otto Schopp, 40 and his wife, Ada, 36, of Wentforth st., Lowell, crashed into a pole when a tire burst on North Lowell rd., Methuen, killing the couple.

The car also struck Helen Piekos 21, of Stanley st., Lowell, who was riding a bicycle and hurled her 30 feet. She died two hours later.

Walking along the New Haven railroad tracks in Canton proved a fatal occupation for Robert Chase, 35 of New Bedford, who was overtaken by a train and killed.

CRASHES POLE

Henry Hebert, 72, of Montreal was instantly killed when the automobile in which he and members of his family were on a vacation tour swerved into a pole on Main st., Woonsocket, R. I.

Laura Mailloux 45 of Holyoke, injured with others when a car struck a tree in Westminster, Vt., Sunday, died yesterday at Mousley Hospital, Walpole, N. H.

Nation's Death Toll 367 During Week-End

Violent deaths in the nation during the Labor Day week-end numbered at least 367.

Traffic accidents killed 228 persons. There were 49 drownings.

CHAMPION HOBBYIST

HALE CENTER, Tex.—Dr Roger Knapp is just about the champion hobbyist of Texas. Some of his diversions: Trick roller skating, fancy high diving and swimming, card tricks, magic, singing (Uncle says he is good), playing musical instruments, croquet, miniature golf, surf, deboard and photography.

BRIDE—The former Katherine F. Ahearn of Brighton shown immediately after her marriage to James F. Slattery, also of Brighton, at holiday nuptial mass in St. Ignatius' Chapel, Boston College. A wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Sheraton. The couple will live in Boston after return from their honeymoon.

BLOT GERMAN ORDERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (INS)—Orders to ships at sea and Nazi troops in the field, dispatched by the German radio station DLN, were effectually broken up by "an unidentified" station, according to NBC engineers who were monitoring the German station.

It was emphasized that the mystery station did not interfere merely with the reception of DLN in the United States, but that the effect of its interference was "world-wide" in scope. The interference was described as "whistling, cat calls and other effects" which drowned out the German messages.

BOSTONIANS FIND TYPHUS REMEDY

(Associated Press Science Editor)
By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—A typhus fever discovery, the first sign of how the European war may be used as a laboratory for great medical progress, was announced today to the third international Congress for Microbiology.

Typhus, one of the war diseases, which has killed more men than bullets, is expected by the doctors at this Congress to break out on the eastern front because the disease is endemic in Poland. The Poles have a vaccine which prevents typhus, but it is extraordinarily difficult to make, so that Poland's present facilities produce only enough for 20,000 persons a year.

An easy way to make unlimited quantities was reported today by Dr. Hans Zinsser of Harvard and Miss Florence FitzPatrick of Boston. They have discovered how to grow the virus that causes typhus on agar, a gelatine made from seaweed.

The vaccine is made by killing this virus with carbolic acid. Dr. Zinsser reported further that the "agar" vaccine protects against the European form of typhus.

Papal Secretary On Secret Mission

ROME, Sept. 5 (INS)—Luigi Cardinal Maglione, papal secretary of state, was reported planning to leave the Vatican on a secret mission shortly.

Cardinal Maglione conferred for an hour with Pope Pius XII. This conference was followed by others with the Italian, French, British and Polish envoys.

SMOKERS:

SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Try America's No. 1 Cigarette For Pleasure, Economy... The Quality Brand Every Smoker Can Afford . . . CAMEL!

Whatever price you pay per pack, it's important to remember this fact: By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give a smoking plus equal to

● You smoke for pleasure, so get all the pleasure there is in smoking—Camels! Instead of lighting up for just another casual smoke, you actually look forward to the rare fragrance and taste, the keen enjoyment of Camel's milder, costlier tobaccos. You'll find Camels a new and thrilling smoking experience—far more pleasure per puff—AND—more puffs per pack!

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

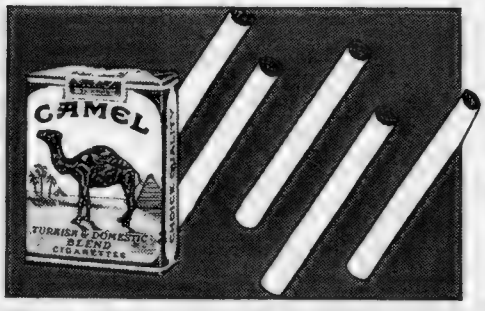
Penny for penny your best cigarette buy



Sixteen of the largest-selling cigarette brands were compared recently in impartial scientific tests by a leading laboratory. The results:

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

JOAN CRAWFORD
Adopt Baby?

Joan Laments Baby Not Own

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5—Joan Crawford, talented screen star, confessed today she'd like to adopt a baby—only it seems too many others are ahead of her.

The willowy actress, who recently divorced Franchot Tone, denied the fast-spreading rumor that she already had adopted a child, but she did admit she had made such an attempt.

Curiosity of neighbors was aroused when it was rumored Joan was caring for an infant.

"It's funny how rumors start at the wrong time," she added. "Right after my separation from Franchot, I inquired about adopting a baby at the Cradle in Evanston.

"But I found there were 3000 persons ahead of me so I had to give up the idea."

Fail to Prevent Scrap Shipment

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 4 (AP) Invocation of the neutrality act, a ship's agent said, would not prevent shipment from Portland and Bucksport of scrap-iron cargoes now being loaded into two freighters.

Peter M. Costello, office manager for Fred E. Gignoux, Inc., said both the Greek freighter George Goulandris, loading 2000 tons here, and the Nordlys, a Danish ship taking on 3000 tons at Bucksport, would sail late this week for undisclosed European ports.

DIES TO SPEED DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (INS)—More reports to the American people on propaganda efforts to embroil the United States in the European war were pledged today by Chairman Dies of the special house committee investigating un-American activities.

Dies made the announcement following President Roosevelt's appeal to the nation to distinguish between fact and rumor regarding the conflict abroad. The committee has been gathering data on the subject for months.

Similarly committee investigators will be assigned to expose efforts, if any, on the part of foreigners to turn American sympathies to one side or other with a view to enlisting the United States in the war.

"The President in his address made it plain that he believes Americans should not become the unwitting victims of the barrage of propaganda which the United States must face for the duration of the war in Europe.

"On that, I concur with him heartily as every American must. Our experience with propaganda during the World War can only convince us that the war with words which will be waged on this country will far surpass anything known before because of the vast strides made in communications."

Dies' statement came as the committee prepared to resume hearings tomorrow on Communism with Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party, on the witness stand. Examination of Browder is expected to take at least two, probably three days.

Arrested For Chaining Girl, 2, to Wall

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5—A neighbor had Ross Hale, 23, arrested here last night and charged with chaining his 2-year-old stepdaughter to the kitchen wall.

Deputy L. D. Borum said he found a chain and collar which Mrs. Hale told him were used to keep the child from running away.

Mrs. Ivy Gilbert swore out a warrant charging Hale with assault and battery against the child, Myrtle Lorraine Martin.

"He beat the child unmercifully with pieces of kindling and chained her up to a nail on the kitchen wall by a dog collar around her neck so her toes could just touch the floor," Borum said Mrs. Gilbert told him.

The officer asserted Hale denied the charge and claimed "I don't know what this is all about."

3 Killed In Ohio Airplane Crash

SANDUSKY, O., Sept. 5 (INS)—Three Chicagoans were killed and a fourth seriously injured when their four-passenger plane crashed after a take-off from a farm near Rugles Beach, 12 miles east of Sandusky.

Harold Howard, the pilot, was killed instantly, and the other two, Lloyd Atkins and Mrs. H. B. Erickson, died a few minutes later. The woman's husband, H. B. Erickson, suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

Trotsky Raps Nazi-Russian Pact

"The German-Soviet pact is a capitulation of Stalin before Fascist imperialism with the end of preserving the Soviet oligarchy," said Trotsky.

"The only 'merit' of the German-Soviet pact is that in unveiling the truth it broke the backbone of the Comintern."

Trotsky explained he had not expressed an opinion earlier because of illness.

BOSTON AMERICAN

ALL THE NEWS AND PICTURES FIT TO PRINT

Think American
Talk American

★BE AMERICAN

THE WORST FORM of propaganda now being disseminated in the United States is the wholly fallacious and entirely malicious suggestion that this country cannot STAY OUT OF WAR.

The United States can and WILL stay out of war, if the patriotic men and women of this country actively and faithfully perform their PATRIOTIC DUTY.

"Our real duty," said Senator Henry Cabot Lodge at the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Boston, "is to STOP THIS TALK THAT WE MUST BE DRAWN INTO WAR AND THAT WE CANNOT AVOID IT."

The people of the United States should recognize and perform this duty.

The blessings of peace and democracy and American freedom are the assured rewards of its performance.

The blasting of peace, the probably permanent loss of democracy, the end of freedom and the waste of resources and slaughter of young American manhood on foreign soil would comprise the hideous and horrible PRICE OF ITS NEGLECT.

THE UNITED STATES can keep out of war by having the will to do so and the good wit to mind its own business.

Senator Lodge has proposed a sensible three-point program for keeping America out of foreign war.

Keep America free to work for her own peace, he says, and not tie her down ahead of time.

Keep America strong, he also says, by means of an adequate Army and Navy.

Encourage a desire FOR PEACE, he finally says, in every American man and woman BY DEVELOPING THE PRO-AMERICAN SPIRIT.

The third of these points in the Lodge program is indisputably the MOST IMPORTANT.

Too many people in this country are busy being pro-Communist, pro-Fascist, pro-Nazi and "pro" other things that are not our American business.

Too many Americans are overlooking and neglecting their American obligations and responsibilities, and underrating their American rights and opportunities.

They are forgetting that peace is not only very desirable but very necessary to the preservation of the FREE AMERICA we know and love.

If Americans are not PRO-AMERICA, first, last and all the time, who else in this world will be?

Be assured that whatever activities and enterprise there may be anywhere to defend and protect the United States must originate here and be furthered here and be SUCCESSFUL here.

---

IT IS NO ACCIDENT that the fatalistic and defeatist attitude regarding the supposed inevitability of our involvement in foreign war is widely voiced and widely preached.

Cunning propagandists are spreading that poisonous belief among us.

They are preparing us for war, and edging us toward war—not for our own good or gain, but for all the help to their foreign causes of which they may plunder us.

A pro-American spirit will protect our democracy, and preserve our freedom and safeguard our American institutions.

Pro-Americanism will keep us at peace.

If Americans ever fight again, let it be only FOR AMERICA, only for the defense of home and country.

Let us be PRO-AMERICA, and by that means KEEP OUT OF WAR.

---

"BACK HOME TO BUY" is more than a slogan; it is an accurate statement of the situation in Boston and New England.

Labor Day gone, vacations ended, a new season beginning—hundreds of thousands of men and women are replenishing their wardrobes and refurnishing their homes.

Better business conditions and one of the most prosperous summers in recent years encourage everybody to "dress up."

And Boston stores are doing their part by offering the WIDEST SELECTIONS of merchandise in their history AT MOST ATTRACTIVE PRICES.

Father, who knows from experience that "clothes can make the man," won't have to delay the purchase of the suit, hat and topcoat he needs and really ought to have.

Mother will not be obliged to suffer the embarrassment of hearing someone say, "I recognized her by the last year's dress she's wearing."

Sister will return to school or work in attire that will contribute to her charm and popularity.

Brother, whether he attends kindergarten or Harvard, will have the manly satisfaction of knowing that his appearance is as good as the other fellows'.

An hour spent in a Boston store during these "BACK HOME TO BUY" days is not only a pleasant experience; it is also an INVESTMENT IN CONTENTMENT AND PROSPERITY.

First Steps

HALTING and uncertain, your first steps, my little son . . . but they will start you on your way, your journey well begun . . . Where they will lead you, little man, it's not for me to say . . . as onward you must fare alone along Life's great highway . . . Your first steps! Will they lead to fame — down lanes with ribbon lined? . . . To distant lands, or off to war? — Such thoughts are in my mind.

Where'er they lead, where'er you go, the long, long journey through . . . a mother's thoughts — part of the way — will still be following you.

Human Side of News -:-

By EDWIN C. HILL

QUITE as bewildering as Danzig and as similarly fraught with a hint of vast, aberrant forces in the world, is the style news from Paris. With basques, flounces, bustles, etc., they've gone straight Edwardian, back to the calm serenity of the age of confidence.

That's fair enough and doubtless reassuring to multitudes who, to paraphrase the Anglicans, see in clothes, "the outward or visible sign of the inward or invisible grace."

But just when we think we have this all straight, and can get our mind back on the fifth race, there is a new and disquieting cable blast from Paris. Hats are running just plain hog-wild, in an arrogant outbreak of military design and fixings. There are shakos, tricornes, bicornes, busbies, fur war bonnets and a horrendous new number built like a Polynesian war canoe.

FASHION'S LATEST!
"An Arrogant Outbreak"

JUST lean back, close your eyes for a moment and picture the anaemic Elizabeth Barrett, languishing in lace and ribbons, topped off with a tall black felt cockade, with guns fore and aft. Then, perhaps, it would be just as well to consult the nearest psychiatrist. But that's how they are styling the girls these days.

Are the bright and dark angels contending here? Is it back to Godey's Lady's Book or forward with Jane's Fighting Ships?

We passed the buck to the anthropologists. They can't answer. There have been rivers of bilge written about women's styles as a reflex of social trends, war and rumors of war, all the wide swings and reactions of human behaviour. It is an alluring subject for the hard-pressed space-grab ber, full of lures to slick and specious conclusions.

Robert H. Lowie, a sound anthropologist, examines these anomalies and incompatibilities in fashion among both men and women in his book, "Are We Civilized?" In general, he finds that the whole business just doesn't make sense.

"THE WHITE MAN'S fashions are as whimsical as the Polynesian's, or the Negro's," says Mr. Lowie. "Even when a change is rational, it is dictated by chance, rather than reason.

"The eighteenth century bristles with examples of what Caucasians will do in periods of superlative refinement. Under Marie Antoinette, French ladies wore headresses so high that a short woman's chin was exactly between her toes and her chest. No carriages could conveniently accommodate these towers of gauze, flowers and plumage.

"When the Queen added to the height of her panache in 1776, its uppermost tier had to be removed as she entered her coach, and replaced when she alighted. Ladies of the court knelt on the floor of the carriage, thrusting their heads out of the window. In dancing they were always afraid of bumping into the chandeliers."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—A few days ago I received a letter from a German friend who roomed with me in school in England.

In this letter she said that when hate was rampant in the world it was easy to believe harm of any nation; that she knew all the nations believed things that were not true about Germany, did not understand her position, and therefore hated her.

She begged that we try to see Germany's point of view and not to judge her harshly.

As I listened Friday to Hitler's speech, this letter kept returning to my mind.

How can you feel kindly toward a man who tells you that German minorities have been brutally treated, first in Czechoslovakia and then in Danzig, but that never can Germany be accused of being unfair to a minority?

I HAVE seen evidence with my own eyes of what this same man has done to people belonging to a minority group—not only Jews, but Christians, who have long been German citizens.

Can one help but question his integrity?

His knowledge of history seems somewhat sketchy too, for, after all, Poland possessed Danzig many years prior to the time that it ever belonged to Germany.

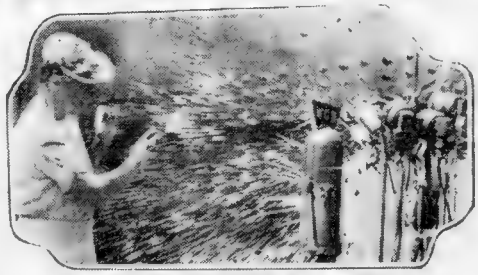
And how can you say that you do not intend to make war on women and children and then send planes to bomb cities?

No, I feel no bitterness against the German people. I am deeply sorry for them, as I am for the people of all other European nations involved in this horrible crisis.

But for the man who has taken this responsibility upon his shoulders I can feel little pity.

It is hard to see how he can sleep at night and think of the people in many nations whom he may send to their deaths.

I CAN HARDLY believe that I actually met the steamer George Washington Friday morning, saw my mother-in-law and Johnny and Anne leave the boat and, with Mrs. John M. Franklin, who had been a passenger and who wanted to go to Newport News, Va., for the christening of the S. S. America, took off at 9:15 in a plane for Newport News.



FIRST LADY CHRISTENS S. S. AMERICA
Bottle Breaks, Ship Starts Down the Ways

We reached there in ample time and the ceremonies went off without a hitch.

I read a letter from the President to Admiral Land, for I represented him.

I held my breath when Mr. Ferguson, president of the shipbuilding company, announced that at 11:49 the first whistle would blow and that one minute later a second whistle would start the ship down the ways.

Everything happened on schedule, and in spite of my usual anxiety I broke the bottle without any difficulty, so the America began her career under auspicious circumstances.

I spent an hour and a half in Washington with my husband and reached Hyde Park again at 7:45 for dinner with my guests.

AUTHOR HUXLEY IN U. S. FOR LIFE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—Aldous Huxley has decided to remain in America for the rest of his life. The famed British writer, who arrived here underweight and wearing thick-lensed glasses, has gained 30 pounds and his eyesight has improved so much that now he can read without glasses . . . Edith Rockefeller McCormick's home, on Chicago's Lake Shore Drive, will be converted into a cafe.

* * *

RESIDENTS of Encino were startled recently when their newest neighbor, riding a horse, visited each home in the neighborhood, introduced himself and said: "I hope that we'll all be happy here and that you'll like us as good neighbors." He was Clark Gable . . . Gertrude Niesen, just arrived in Hollywood from New York, had appointments with five swains on the night before she left Manhattan. She went to a 52d street restaurant at 4 p. m. and remained there for ten hours. Her five dates met her in shifts and departed when their two-hour time limit expired.

GERTRUDE NIESEN

A MAN named Searle now is in America performing an unusual assignment for the British Home Office. His job is to investigate and report upon conditions in American prisons for purposes of comparison with those in Great Britain . . . Searle is getting his information first-hand by becoming a prisoner at each jail for one week—with the consent of the officials . . . He recently spent seven days as a prisoner in Alcatraz. His report included the fact that any pet—whether it be the Warden's cat or dog—cannot survive if it reaches the prisoner's quarters.

MOST ELEGANT building in all Hollywood is that owned by the Music Corporation of America, the agency which represents the best-known orchestras in this country. The furnishings were brought from England at an expenditure of almost half a million dollars . . . Atop the building entrance is a globular emblem, in concrete, on which musical notes and a scale have been etched. The notes are those of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" . . . Two months after the building was dedicated the emblem was taken down and replaced—because Jerome Kern, visiting the place, had pointed out that two of the notes were wrong.

A "BIG STORY" ALWAYS produces a certain number of offshoots, comparatively unimportant angles aloof from the main line of events . . . The European cataclysm is no exception . . . One candidate for the "sidelights" department of the Biggest Story of Them All, the story of what is happening to the world today, appealed to your reporter as grade-A candidate . . . It was the rationing of ladies' apparel by the master of the Reich . . . Did you read it?

TWO DRESSES, ONE OVERCOAT and 12 stockings . . . Not 12 pairs, 12 stockings . . . But chiefly indicative of the difference between the ideology bannered by the Stars and Stripes and that trademarked by the swastika, was the decree that women of middle-Europe must, for the duration of the Polish punitive expedition, restrict themselves to the possession of two sets of intimate garments . . . If the women of the Reich are kin to the women of this part of the East in reaction, a shudder must have shaken the land at the indelicacy of the Reich-masters in ordaining this restriction.

DID THE ORDER read: "etc., etc., and two sets of underthings?" . . . It did not . . . Nor was the German equivalent of the now out-moded American "unmentionables" used in listing this item . . . Perhaps "panties" has no German translation, and the term "lingerie" doubtless was considered too general, and far from specific enough, to express what the very literal-minded commissar of clothing wished to convey . . . But it does seem the German boss of the future-wardrobe, might have chosen a more gentle description than the blunt "drawers" . . . I feel that American women would have been helped psychologically by such a small show of delicacy.

TWO DRESSES, ONE OVERCOAT and twelve stockings and two pairs of what-Hitler-called-them! . . . Eavesdropping on a party at the Ritz Roof last night—it didn't require much eavesdropping because the gals were excitedly going-to-town on an anticipatory orgy of shopping on the morrow—your correspondent heard a ramble which went something like this: "Can you picture it, my dear . . . Two pairs of . . . Gracious . . . I'm going to stock up!" . . . They've been talking about investment in "war babies," many of the men have, and serious forums have pro-ed and con-ned over the possible immediate effect on business over here of the European tragedy . . . Crass reckonings, indeed, but borne of human nature and a "sidelight" of the distant but awful scene . . . Well, the smart boys can pick and choose their investments . . . For me, one purchase will be a positive pleasure . . . It will be sheer joy to fork over the dough for at least one of the necessary pair of shoes for school . . . He'll be wearing them to "class," but it won't be a class a few years down on the list of those to be called to service

SAUNDERS' STORY FOR SCREEN

By Louella O. Parsons

John M. Saunders

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5—The record breaking price of $25,000 was handed John Monk Saunders Saturday for his original story, "Battalion of Death." So timely is it with all its war significance that Paramount will make it at once with Arthur Hornblower, who discovered the story, at the producer's helm. If you have been reading the newspapers you have undoubtedly heard of the Battalion of Death being organized in France of men who are crippled and old and whose legs are naturally numbered.

These brave unfortunates, many of whom were wounded in the last war, want to help, feeling that the young and strong should be spared dangerous missions. Undoubtedly Paramount's lead will be followed by many dramas for as I remember the last war there were many similar movies since after all that's the most discussed subject these days. Saunders, who was a flier himself in the last war, is also the author of "Dawn Patrol." The cast already selected includes Akim Tamiroff, Robert Preston and Joel McCrea if he finishes "Arizona" in time.

LINDA DARNELL

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Linda Darnell has been very sick ever since that trek to the Coast from Fred Astaire relaxing in Newport . . . Came from his sister Adele that she and Lord Cavendish are leaving for the Cavendish estate, Lismore Castle, in Ireland out of the path of air bombers; Mrs. Jack Warner hostess at a welcome home party for Constance Bennett; the producers stayed right at home over Labor Day not only because of war but because of the strike situation; the Warner press gang went to the train to meet George Raft Saturday but he was nowhere in sight . . . Marlene Dietrich at the Manhattan to dock with Norma Shearer from abroad.

ROSEMARY LANE'S new boy friend, John Hart, under contract to Paramount, resembles Bob Taylor; Virginia Weidler is in a dither . . . Garbo's personal hairdresser did her hair for "Ladies Are Single" . . . Garbo, by the way, went back to the fashion show next day after she ducked the photographers and ordered three gowns from Irene; King Vidor and Charlie Chaplin in a huddle at the Brown Derby far into the night discussing "The Dictators".

"Just a Pal"

WHEN JOHN and I met we were both medical students. I was so intent on my career, I had determined to have no romance until after my graduation. But all my resolutions went overboard when I laid eyes on him.

I would have chucked all my plans in a second to have become his wife, but John said I must go on.

He declared his love for me, but insisted we must be great friends and pals until those precious degrees were handed us.

SO I DECIDED to be just the person he would have me be. When my whole soul cried out to be feminine, sweet—like any young girl in love, I forced myself to appear unemotional, distant and "just a pal."

John even insisted that I make no effort to keep myself attractive. He would scoff when I fussed with my hair or went in search of attractive clothes.

He accused me of failing to live up to my bargain.

A strange courtship, of course—but I wanted only to please John. The long years dragged on. We both made excellent records, but for me that was not enough.

WHAT DID AN A AVERAGE MEAN TO ME WHEN I LONGED ONLY FOR A VINE-COVERED COTTAGE AND "SWEET NOTHINGS" WITH JOHN.

THEN at last graduation day came. I felt pride in my own diploma, but so much more in John's.

After all, his work was to count. For my part, I wanted only to settle down with home, husband and babies.

Long ago we had set our wedding day for two months after graduation. How happy I was in my preparations!

TWO WEEKS before the set date, John came. Throwing my arms about him, I cried, "Darling, I'm so happy. Come see all the beautiful things I've bought." But he shoved me from him and said, "Helen, you're strong, not silly like other girls—so I can talk to you straight from the shoulder. You see, dear, this marriage of ours can't be. I love another girl—the exact opposite of you. Where you are brilliant and clever, she is sweet and dull. You are courageous while she is weak; you are competent, while she is helpless."

I could only murmur, "Yes, go on."

"Helen," he said, "I admire and respect you more than any person I know, but you see I LOVE her for the very qualities you can never possess—her feminine love for home, family and the like."

Try to explain—no, there was no use. He would never understand. Today, my whole life and energies are in my work.

I am happy in helping suffering humanity, but deep in my heart I envy other women whose sole interest is making a home for the husband and children I shall never have.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"I GET hot under the collar," he writes, "when I see these thousands of aimless, unemployed wanderers. Admitted that most of them look half-starved and simple minded, to boot . . . but is that any reason why we decent citizens should be taxed out of our back teeth to carry them?"

Yes it is, my friend!

You're plenty willing—aren't you?—to accept the rich heritage of your fathers, their individual bank accounts, the fine highways, schools, libraries, police protection, water supplies and countless other civilized conveniences and institutions which serve the general public. As well as the sane mind and sound body which is your particular legacy from healthy, well-fed generations!

Of course you are.

VERY WELL! But remember, this: If you accept one side of the picture, you must also accept its reverse.

They made good—those successful fathers of yours. But they didn't do it on their own. They made good by hiring duller men at cheap wages . . . by pinching weaker men . . . by profiteering on human fright and hunger, pain, stupidity and unstability. They weren't villians.

They were honest and industrious according to their lights . . . but they were HUMAN . . . and their lights grew dim whenever there was a slick penny to be turned.

AND NOW YOU'VE INHERITED THEIR BOODLE. THEN YOU ALSO INHERIT THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THEIR BLUNDERS AND BRUTALITY!

IN LOUIS BROMFIELD'S magnificent book—"THE RAINS CAME" (you'll be seeing it in the movies) there's a passage which should be both challenge and answer to those who cry, "AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?"

Even when he was only a stripling of 20—serving in the World War—a sickness fell on nobly born Tom Ransome. Not a bodily sickness but something infinitely worse . . . a malady of the spirit.

He could remember the hour it started. Soul-shocked by the horror he had witnessed, he lay dreaming and, as he drowsed, there passed a dozen companies of soldiers ready come to relieve the exhausted troops. Dwarfish men, they were, "none of them much over five feet tall, gnarled hard brave little fellows, but all rickety and twisted and deformed."

All his privileged life in England, he had seen such men pass—indifferently. Now, as in a dream, he saw what lay behind them and a profound feeling of pity and affection" entered his soul. THEY "NEVER HAD A CHANCE."

Nor have millions of Americans. We call this a free country. But how much freedom has it for babies laboring in sugar beet fields or bending over benches in textile mills?

ARE you your brother's keeper? UNLESS you're a yellow run-out . . . YOU ARE!

MILLION DIVE UNDER PARIS IN RAID FEAR

finally had become a reality to those who, until now, only had read in wonderment of the war's developments.

When the sirens first started moaning and then raised their wails into shrieks for a full ten minutes, thousands of persons stumbled down stairs and under ground.

In a narrow stone vault beneath the Ile de la Cite, an aged man and woman in bathrobes, their gas masks on awry, groped their way into a corner and sat clinging to one another.

A young man in pajamas, without a mask, dashed back and forth filling buckets of water and soaking towels to use instead.

A Negro maid, with a flickering candle showing the contrast between her white nightgown and her impassive black face, stood silently by the wall.

AND GIRL MAKES UP

Under the Hotel Continental on the right bank of the Seine, where 200 guests and censors were gathered, a blonde girl calmly combed her hair and made up her face.

In the cellar of the Associated Press office, just off the Place de la Bourse, two spaniels hustled downstairs by the janitor whimpered in the gloom. But the dogs gradually grew reassured as other occupants of the building entered.

Subway stations were favorite points of refuge, with calm but anxious crowds massing at entrances and on underground platforms.

The first to sally forth saw strange clouds racing across the sky and detected a vague odor of lime.

On woman who had removed her gas mask and walked out onto the Pont Neuf, cried "gas," hastily donned her mask again and ran for shelter.

LOOSE ARTIFICIAL FOG

Actually the anti-aircraft defense batteries around the capital had released artificial fog at a height of about 400 feet. It covered the upper part of the Eiffel Tower and cut off the view of the observation balloon from crews manning the ground wires.

Emotions ran from fear to confidence in the time the alarm lasted.

"I wonder if they're coming," said one warden anxiously.

"I'm not worried," he insisted as the sirens stopped without a sign of planes.

"They couldn't get through," he declared belligerently as the second siren ended the alert. "For every plane they send up we send up ten."

It was a great battle while it lasted, but the enemy failed to appear.

ARMIES AT GRIPS

A terse French general staff communique last night said "contact has been made on the front" with the Germans.

French sources said this indicated the French troops had taken a few advance positions, probably under a preliminary artillery barrage. But along the hundreds of miles separating France and Germany fighting was reported at a minimum.

Anglo-Nazi Air Duel Over Sea

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 5 (INS)—German airplanes in large numbers battled British machines over the sea between 5 and 6 p. m. yesterday, according to reports today from Tonder, in Southwestern Denmark.

The bombing of nearby Esjberg, Danish seaport, in which two persons were killed when five bombs fell, was believed connected with this fight.

Danish authorities, meanwhile, sought to establish the nationality of the plane which, either in the fight or through an error, dropped the bombs.

Baby Recovering From Plunge

Baby Joan Allen, 15 months, was recovering today from slight injuries suffered when she fell from the third to the second floor piazza of her home in Crawford st., Roxbury.

Mrs. Mary Allen took the child to City Hospital, where physicians said she received only a cut lip and loss of two teeth.

Dorchester Man Killed in Crash

Joseph G. O'Donnell, 29, of Westglow st., Dorchester, was killed today when his car crashed into a parked truck in Massachusetts ave., Dorchester.

Several persons in a nearby lunchroom said a tire on O'Donnell's car apparently blew out and the car swerved across the avenue.

BULLETIN

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5 (INS)—Foreign airplanes—thought to be German—were fired on near Amsterdam today. The Netherlands Government warned yesterday that such action would be taken, after both British and German planes were reported flying over the neutral area.

Guard on Aliens Here Extended

Boston police today continued to maintain a steady watch over the home of Dr. Herbert Scholtz, German consul, Reservoir avenue, Brighton, and the residences of other foreign officials, to afford them all protection possible during the European war.

A patrolman was assigned to guard Dr. Scholtz' home, but was removed at the consul's request.

Other officers were assigned to duty along the waterfront as a safeguard against possible trouble at the various docks, where vessels from various warring nations are near one another.

Radio patrol cars in Brighton kept constant watch over Dr. Scholtz's home after the stationary guards had been removed at the consul's insistence and police indicated the watchfulness would continue.

Dr. Scholtz said no requests for passports to Germany had been made at his office as yet. He explained that a majority of Germans in Boston had already taken out their first American citizenship papers.

Poles Claim 7-Mile Sweep Into East Prussia

By JAMES E. BROWN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WARSAW (Via Paris), Sept. 5 Suddenly opening an offensive on the extreme frontier of Germany, hard-riding Polish cavalrymen today claimed to have captured two East Prussian towns and penetrated more than seven miles beyond the border.

The thrust was made from the Suwalki section, where Poland projects between East Prussia and Lithuania.

Karhein and Kowahlen both fell to the Poles, it was said. One German officer and 30 soldiers were taken prisoners.

The remainer of the German forces in that sector, it was asserted, were falling back in disorder.

On other fronts, German advances were attributed to strategic retreats to shorten the Polish battle lines.

Poland, with its capital sending up great columns of smoke following two German air raids, today conceded major progress by the German armies across the Polish corridor, and below East Prussia.

Capture of Bydgoszcz and Grudziaz by the Germans was announced.

(Fall of these two cities in the German pincers movement from Pomerania and East Prussia across the Corridor seemed to observers to support Berlin's announcement that Polish forces in the northern part of the Corridor had been cut off.)

The Germans, it was stated, also advanced in the Pissysez and Ciechanow sectors south of East Prussia.

23 PLANES SHOT DOWN

Polish forces attacked German mechanized units on the Silesian front, and Polish fliers bombed German divisions northeast of Czestochowa. Seventeen German planes, according to the Poles, were shot down and eight Polish craft were lost.

Hand to hand fighting with bayonets was reported in Silesia, where the battle, on one of three major fronts, was described as extremely bitter.

The most "isolated" of all Polish troops were reported still holding out against vastly superior opposition. This was the garrison at Westerplatte, the ammunitions dump on a small peninsula jutting into Danzig harbor. It has been subjected to German sea and air attacks since dawn last Friday.

In addition to withdrawing from Grudziadz and Bydgoszcz, Polish troops earlier had begun straightening the front in what was described as an orderly retreat from Czestochowa, an important city in the southwestern industrial section. A communique said the retreat in the face of an overwhelming enemy assault, was covered by Polish airplanes which broke up two columns of German troops.

POLISH FLIERS BUSY

A Polish aerial squadron was reported to have inflicted heavy losses on enemy armored troops the nights of Sept. 3 and 4.

The wrecking of the gal scout canteen at the east Warsaw railway station produced the heaviest casualties in yesterday's long air raid, called out by sixteen German planes. The Poles claimed to have shot down three. The bombing also produced heavy losses in Warsaw's residential outskirts. Four apartment houses and a street car barn in the city proper were destroyed.

A train of Red Cross cars with wounded from the battlefields, was struck by splinters from the bomb that exploded in the canteen, but without further injury to those on the train.

Troops Heil Hitler as He Goes to Front

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, "first soldier" of the Reich, has followed his warriors across the Polish corridor (Pomorze), the German news agency announced today, triumphantly marking the consolidation of German territory split by the treaty of Versailles.

The agency said the Fuehrer joined his army of the east at Kulm (Chelmno), on the Vistula river near the border of East Prussia, while steps were taken in Berlin to strengthen the nation for war, now in both the east and west.

Ludlow Renews War Vote Drive

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP) Congress will be asked at its next session to give the people of the United States the sole power to plunge the country into a foreign war.

Representative Ludlow (D) of Indiana said today if a special session were called, he would renew his efforts for approval of his resolution under which a constitutional amendment would be submitted to the states.

Under the amendment the electorate, instead of Congress, would be given the right to approve United States participation in a foreign conflict.

Ludlow has unsuccessfully sought approval of his resolution during the last several sessions of Congress.

GERMANS CLAIM 10 BRITISH PLANES DOWN

mines and left plants and machinery virtually unimpaired.

It was stated officially that during the first three days of hostilities, the Germany army, despite constant resistance, averaged gains of approximately 30 kilometres daily (18.6 miles), while the whole three-pronged movement brought about a 15-mile a day dissection of the Polish state.

A third of the Polish submarines in the Baltic have been destroyed in engagements off Danzig, it was stated, while 11 more Polish planes were shot down in air battles between Warsaw and Lodz this morning.

A final naval report on the British air raid at the entrance to he Keil canal stated that 10 of the 12 attacking R. A. F. planes had been "accounted for." Falling parts of disabled planes struck and damaged Geerman warships, injuring a number of sailors, but not one bomb found its mark, the nigh command asserted.

The two other British planes were believed accounted for, but but there was no direct evidence.

Once again, the German military command on the western frontier reported no activity on the Franco-German border. Berlin political quarters charged British propaganda in Paris was responsible for reports that hostilities began yesterday, insisting the Freench apparently are unwilling to fight yet, leaving Britain in a quandry.

The Egyptian charge d'affaires in Berlin informed the German government London reports of Egypt joining the war against Germany were incorrect Egypt remains neutral, he said.

Germans Filch British Radio

LONDON, Sept. 5 (INS)—Germany tried a new method of reaching English radio listeners with propaganda today.

Listeners tuning in on the regular British broadcasting wavelength were surprised to hear a voice speaking in perfect English and announcing German news bulletins for listeners in Britain.

British broadcasting company officials said they would take steps to "jam" the German station, which is a method of interfering with the channel so that the speaker's words are unintelligible.

International News Photograph Service

DENY SINKING ATHENIA

Another navy report was issued on the sinking of the British liner Athenia, again denying German responsibility.

"It may have been mined," political circles said. "But in any case Churchill (Winston Churchill, British first lord of the admiralty) is not above shooting one of his own torpedoes for the sake of American gullibility."

Polish troops are evacuating the east Upper Silesian industrial district, the communique said.

The jaws of the German war machine are closing fastest on Cracow, Lodez and Posen.

The communique showed that the right arm of the Cracow pincer had moved forward 30 kilometers (18½) miles to Madowice since yesterday, while the left arm advanced another 20 kilometers (12⅓ miles) to Jawerzno.

German troops succeeded in crossing the Warthe river near Sieradz, which means that unless the Poles retreat bodily across the river, Polish forces remaining on the Sieradz side must retire or risk encirclement.

TAKE MANY PRISONERS

The communique stated:

"The German eastern army broke enemy resistance on all fronts on Sept. 4, advancing irresistibly, while the enemy is retreating, partially in disorder.

"Prisoners and booty are being taken in increasing quantity, but as yet cannot be estimated.

"The seventh Polish division southeast of Czenstochau was annihilated and the entire staff taken prisoner.

"The enemy is hastily evacuating the east upper Silesian industrial district.

"The Germans have crossed the Warthe near Sieradz.

French Liner Sails With Planes From U. S.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5 (AP)—The French line freighter Vermont, carrying 19 airplanes for France, steamed past the mouth of the Mississippi river and entered the Gulf of Mexico today.

The ship sailed a few hours before the expected invoking of the United States neutrality act.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

5 Resign, 1 Ousted In Banking Shakeup

Five officials resigned and one who refused was ousted today in the first major shakeup of the state division of closed banks since Garrett S. Hoag became chief of the division last Friday, replacing John Lacey Delaney of Cambridge.

James J. Hurley, liquidating agent of the Bancroft Trust Co., of Worcester, was removed as Hoag brought all closed banks in the Boston area under one liquidating agent.

Those who resigned were Francis E. Burke, agent for the Central, Highland, and Inman Trust companies; Frederick J. Muldoon, agent of the Charlestown, Revere and Salem Trust companies; Gerald J. McCarthy, agent for the Medford Trust Co., and Joseph Fine, a conveyancer in the division.

Thomas H. White, nephew of Thomas W. White, U. S. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge's secretary, resigned as liquidating agent for the Exchange Trust Co. of Boston, but was retained in the division as counsel. He had been receiving $86.53 a week as agent.

Hurley's salary was $90 a week, as was Burke's, while Muldoon and McCarthy were each paid $85, and Fine, $77.

The new liquidating agent, who will handle the affairs of all banks in the Boston metropolitan area from one central headquarters at 175 Washington st., is George H. Harbour, of Milton, formerly liquidating agent for the Belmont Trust Co.

The changes, Hoag declared should "speed up liquidation of all these institutions."

$2 Slash Made In Everett Tax

A reduction of $2 in the Everett tax rate was announced today by Mayor Frank E. Lewis.

In an open letter Mayor Lewis made public the rate of $36.20 for 1939, as compared with the 1938 rate of $38.20.

"The reduction was achieved by "effecting every reasonable economy" and was in spite of an increase of $180000 in the state levy, Mayor Lewis pointed out.

Hunt Penrose Heiress Here

Still shrouded in mystery today was the whereabouts—and perhaps the fate — of 12 year-old Frances Penrose, daughter of the nephew and namesake of the late national Republican boss Boies Penrose, late Senator from Pennsylvania.

With a firm of Boston lawyers looking for her at the behest of her mother's family, the socialite Parker H. Kembles of Marblehead, the little girl was expected to arrive here on the Cunard liner Saxonia Sunday.

The child is the daughter of divorced parents, Miss Penrose 2d, of Philadelphia, and the present Baroness de Chollet, who was Frances Winslow Kemble, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Winslow of Boston.

Meeting Keeps Ickes From Blessed Event

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5—Secretary Ickes was the proud father of a seven-pound, 11-ounce boy today, but a cabinet meeting kept him in Washington while the blessed event occurred at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Ickes arrived several hours after the birth.

Dr. Edmund Harrison said Mrs. Ickes and the baby were doing "splendidly."

Mrs. Ickes is 26 years old, the youngest cabinet wife. Ickes is 65.

President Roosevelt "played Cupid" when his private secretary, an Administration stalwart, went to Ireland to marry the former Jane Dahlman of Milwaukee May 24, 1938, at the American minister's there. Mrs. Ickes's stepfather is Cudahy, U. S. minister to Ireland.

The President concealed the whereabouts of his aide and news of the marriage status office in Washington as a surprise.

Ickes has a son, Raymond, by his first marriage who is a New York attorney.

U-BOAT SHELLED ATHENIA

how many were dead and injured.

The captain added:

"There was no panic whatever on board the ship. The passengers faced danger bravely."

As they came ashore the survivors crowded about the few available telephones, anxious to inform their friends of their safe arrival in Ireland.

Ruth E. Strauss of New York said:

"I saw a flash on the port side of the Athenia about 800 to 1000 yards away. The torpedo struck in a few seconds and was followed by a shell. The ship was still afloat when we left the scene five hours later."

Sub Fired Twice on Passengers

GREENOCK, Scotland, Sept. 5 (AP)—A survivor landing from one of two rescue ships here today declared a German submarine which torpedoed the British liner Athenia fired two shells at the ship as passengers and crew were taking to lifeboats.

The survivor was John McEwin of Glasgow, who also stated "it was rumored that 90 perished."

Other survivors said emphatically the Athenia was sunk by a submarine, and that the submarine fired two shells at the sinking vessel.

"We had a terrible time," said McEwan, "and we knew at once what it was.

"We all put on our lifebelts and went to our boat stations. The submarine then dived out of sight and several times during the night, when we were in the lifeboats, we heard the submarine passing below.

PASSENGERS BRAVE

"The conduct of the passengers was magnificent. I don't know how many have been killed, but it is rumored that 90 perished.

"There was a great deal of smoke when the torpedo struck our vessel. But through the smoke I could see the submarine break the surface and before we knew where we were, it had opened up with its gun and fired two shots at us.

"Every lifeboat was away an hour after we were struck. The liner first of all listed and then righted herself and began to go slowly down by the head.

"We drifted until 2:30 in the morning when a Norwegian ship picked us up.

"I saw the sub quite distinctly and I estimate that it was a quarter of a mile away."

One member of the crew, Robert Gillan of Glasgow, said he saw a 12-year-old girl lying dead in a deckchair, her body torn by shell splinters.

MANY IN BANDAGES

Women and children limped weakly from motor buses, wearing navy boiler suits and pajamas some with curtains around their heads and most of them without shoes.

Almost all of them were bandaged.

Children who had lost their parents were carried weeping into the hotel. Some had lost their voices. There were wives without husbands, husbands without wives. All were desperate for news of survivors from other rescue areas.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cox of Neepawa, Manitoba, said they just had got into a lifeboat when the rope broke throwing them into the water.

Mrs. Cox said: "We were soon taken back into the boat, but we had to bail it out with our shoes. While we rowed during the night we were almost submerged by the swell from the submarine as it passed under us."

FOUND BABY ON BOAT

A Mrs. Brown from New Orleans and her 11-months-old baby were rescued. She said the torpedo struck close to her cabin, carrying away the companionway to the deck above.

"I handed the baby to someone on the deck above me and scrambled up myself later. When I found the baby in the same lifeboat with me I was crazy with joy."

A Mrs. Turner of Toronto, World War widow, said, "I am the luckiest woman on earth. I was looking over the rail when the torpedo smashed us. The ship lurched violently, and I was thrown to the deck.

"When I came to I saw several people lying dead on the deck and then I heard the two shells.

"Later I found myself in a lifeboat—the water was up to my waist."

A fireman in the Athenia crew said he thought two shells were fired.

The two destroyers brought approximately 500 survivors to Greenock. Several died on the rescue ships and were buried at sea.

'Toy Torpedo Boat' Sent U. S. on Liner

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (INS)—With the "last word in motor torpedo craft" riding snugly in a cradle in the bow, the United States liner President Roosevelt came safely into port today with 539 passengers who fled war-stricken Europe.

The British-designed torpedo boat, which will be demonstrated for the United States navy, was the focal point of interest for the passengers, many of whom were forced to sleep in cots in passageways and lounge rooms.

Captain Harry Manning, skipper of the ship which carried approximately $21,000,000 in European gold consigned to American banks, described the trip as uneventful.

No passengers were allowed to inspect the torpedo boat which was in charge of Kenneth Perry, retired lieutenant-commander of the Royal Navy.

Perry described the boat as a "70 footer" with a bigger range, faster, more armaments, two-way wireless and sleeping accommodations for a 12-man crew.

"She only draws four and a half feet," said Perry, "and can be used over mine fields without danger."

The former naval officer, reticent about many details of the boat, which has a beam of about 20 feet, declared she could "live in any weather." The maximum cruising speed is 40 knots.

She mounts four torpedoes and two double guns on either side which are power operated.

"She carries enough to disable the biggest ship afloat," said Perry, adding that the craft weighs about 45 tons when ready for shipping and with armaments costs approximately $200,000.

The range of the boat is "well over" the normal range of 1000 miles for similar ships.

Alien Flees U. S. Pen Here

Picking locks of two steel doors, smashing through a skylight and lowering himself from a roof with an improvised rope, a criminal alien, held here for deportation, staged a Houdini escape from the East Boston immigration station today.

The fugitive Francisco DiMarco, 34, a native of Italy, but recently of Bridgeport, Ct., was described as a "dangerous type."

BECAUSE sight-seeing in Europe all summer and a hurried trip across the Atlantic don't allow much time for horseback riding, Dorothy Preston decided she was out of practice and didn't ride her thoroughbreds in the Myopia Horse Show yesterday . . .

Dottie was there, however, just in from New York and the liner New Amsterdam and added plenty of thrills to ringside gossip with her exciting accounts of experiences in evacuating Paris, waiting hours for the ship to sail, blackouts and other incidents of the crossing.

She was warmly welcomed home by her North Shore neighbors who knew she was in France and worried about her safety . . .

Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Jr., caused the eyes of many a spectator to turn from the horses in the show ring to admire her costume . . . With her simple white sharkskin dress she wore a violet pancake sailor hat tied on with a cloud of violet veil, and she carried a purse of the same brilliant color . . . Mrs. Joe Woods exclaimed "That's a nifty outfit," which is certainly a compliment considering that Mrs. Woods was voted the best dressed woman on the shore in last year's Casino contest . . . the title which Pat Phelan won this year . . .

Eleo Sears, that feminine jack-of-all-sports, captured the Turner Hill Cup with one of her hunters . . . but not without stiff competition from Mrs. Frederick Ayer, Tillie Tuckerman and Ruth Ellen Patton . . . Then Ruth Ellen and her brother, George, Jr., added to their trophy collection by winning first and second prizes in the Touch and Out class, while their mother looked on from an old fashioned carry-all drawn up to the ringside . . .

Socialites Flock to Ringside

MR. AND MRS. T. DENNIE BOARDMAN, JR., guests of Dennie's father of Manchester, were among the spectators . . . Mrs. John Knight Waters of West Point, and Mrs. Albert Beveridge, Jr., of Indianapolis, former North Shore society girls, looked familiar as they strolled about chatting with old friends.

In the throng of spectators, watching from the tops of tallyhos, pony carts, beach wagons, or any old vehicle which could be drawn up to the ringside, were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ayer with their daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Steward, Mrs. W. Galbraithe Mitchell and Mr. Francis P. Sears, justly proud of his wife and daughter who were riding their new Irish hunters . . . Mr. Sears entered into the spirit of the occasion by wearing the Myopia colors, orange and gold, in his striped necktie and hatband . . .

Still others there were Eavie Lilly, who, though a newcomer to the show ring, impressed the judges with her performance on "Smoky" . . . Ruth Weyburn, Virginia Shrigley, Reddy Stevenson, Marileeds Heard, Mrs. Dudley Pickman, Jr..

Mary Feeny Honored

A number of gay informal parties is preceding the smart fall wedding of Mary Dorothea Feeny of Medford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Feeny of Medford, to Theodore Gahan of Medford.

The wedding which will be solemnized in the Immaculate Conception Church in Malden will be followed by a breakfast and reception at the Copley-Plaza.

Betty Gahan, sister of the bridegroom-elect, entertained in honor of the bride at a luncheon at the Town Lyne House in Lynnfield. Margaret O'Neill of Somerville, another one of the bride's attendants, was hostess at a buffet supper at her summer home in Hull while Marguerite Downey of Cambridge will entertain at a luncheon at the Copley-Plaza Saturday evening.

Dr. Henry Gahan of Medford will serve as best man while Dr. John W. Gahan of Medford will head his brother's usher group.

DOES PRESSURE COOKING HELP?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY
Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau

My little boy is very fond of buttermilk, and I buy a couple of quarts a week for him. Do you think that is too much for a child of eight? MRS. H. A. I.

While buttermilk does not contain all the ingredients of whole milk, it is a valuable food. The amount you are giving the boy can not possibly do him harm and is providing him with necessary food elements. So long as he likes it keep on giving it to him, but be sure he drinks plenty of whole milk as well.

Pressure Cooker Conserves Vitamin C

I have heard various opinions concerning "pressure cooking" vegetables, and am seeking your advice in the matter. Does preparing vegetables in a pressure cooker destroy the vitamin value for children? MRS. G. F. G.

In the cooking of vegetables in particular, vitamin C can be destroyed by oxidation; consequently one aims to reduce, so far as possible, the oxidizing effect.

It happens that in the pressure cooker the product is cooked in an atmosphere of live steam instead of air, and thus the destruction of vitamin C is much less than when the vegetable is cooked in an open kettle. In brief, when you use the pressure cooker, you are helping to save vitamin C instead of destroying it.

Wheat-Germ Oil for Vitamin E

The richest known source of vitamin E is wheat-germ oil. This oil is now sold by a number of distributors. Consult your druggist.

Vitamin E is apparently quite widely distributed in common foodstuffs. Lettuce, tomatoes, and bananas are among the foods listed by its discoverer, Dr. H. M. Evans, as good sources, and since it is present in wheat germ, all wholewheat flours and cereals contain this vitamin. It is not yet available in pure form.

Galvanized Iron Is Zinc-Coated

Would milk left in a galvanized can, covered or uncovered, be poisoned by the galvanized tin? MRS. E. F.

"Galvanized" cans, so called, are iron cans to which has been applied a coating of zinc, the iron being first cleaned and then plunged into a bath of melted zinc and other substances. Milk does not contain any solvent for this zinc, and there is no harmful action of zinc on the milk.

VITAMIN E is the antisterility vitamin, because its absence results in failure to reproduce. It is especially abundant in wheat germ oil and lettuce. It is also found in numerous meals.

MASHED POTATOES A LA PHYFE

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved spoons and half-pint measuring cups. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS

9 medium potatoes
½ small bud garlic, grated
1 tsp. olive oil
2 tbsp. butter
Several dashes paprika
½ tsp. salt
Speck pepper
½ tsp. celery seed

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Pare and cook the potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and dry out over a very low heat. Crush with a potato masher. Saute the garlic in the olive oil and butter in a deep saucepan; add the paprika, salt, pepper, celery seed, and the potatoes. Beat with a spoon, adding a dash of the cream now and then until the potatoes are as light as fluff. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3, make half this recipe.

SERVE with veal loaf, broccoli and chilled canteloupe for dinner.

Now That You're Back Home to Buy

By ANNICE BRINK

THERE'S something particularly pleasing to New England about all today's fashion trends . . . from furniture to jewelry . . . because they all take something really fine and worth while from the past! And that amounts to a New England fetish.

Though you wouldn't want some of the Victorian ideas transplanted into your kitchen . . . it's the stream-lined word of the day after tomorrow that you draw on for these, in the interest of efficiency . . . you do take kindly to bustles, in modified form, children's clothes that have a touch of yesteryear quaintness, and jewelry that might well be heirloom stuff.

You appreciate fine woolens and simple things for sportswear, which is all in the tradition. And the whole thing just indissolubly ties up with the apparent trend in homes, where fine mahogany and 18th century gentility of line and fabric hold most strongly your the public's—favor!

All illustrations are of furniture or merchandise either actually obtainable in Boston shops, or easily approximated

THE MATCH MATE idea is becoming increasingly popular in fashion, and this time it's a pair of hats, one masculine the other feminine, that are look-alikes. It's the smallest porkpie model that's generally comfortable and becoming. She wears tailored grey wool, and he wears diagonal tweed.

MOST POPULAR of all is the modern adaptation of copy of jewelry from the past . . . and above, is Grandmother's favorite dog collar, a wide velvet band with large amethyst stone set in a baroque scroll in gold, studded with brilliants and lavishly festooned with crystal drops! Baroque lines feature the serpentine bracelet and the ear rings.

PERHAPS the most important news in fall shoes has to do with the "walled last" variously called the bulldog, apple or Turkish toe. And hee it is in a so-smart spectator sports pumps, always a prime autumn favorite.

You Can Be Beautiful

New Kit Offered

By ARLINE GOULD

WHEN you've generously gifted your skin with all five essentials to beauty . . . which sounds like a Confucianism, but is sound modern beauty sense, because you can't pamper your skin in one way and overlook all the others, not if it's going to show any results . . . then you know exactly where you stand in the glamour scheme.

What are these five essentials? You'll find each one included in a new kit, a generous size of every one, for the truly amazing price of $1.

We don't know how long this introductory "secrets of loveliness" kit special will last, and we don't care as long as you hear about it in time to get yours. It starts today.

One is a light soothing masque that makes smooth all the ripples of fatigue and fretting that show in your face. Another is an ultra-deep pore cleansing cream. Still another is a night "texture cream" of great importance. And then two liquids, without which any beauty regime is incomplete. One is a "freshener" as limpidly cool as water at great depth. The other is a softening lotion, to protect you against everything that lurks in the atmosphere, soot, icy shafts, and sharp dust.

To learn about this "secrets of loveliness" kit with five essential cosmetics for a dollar, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4060, week-days until 5:30, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love

And Marriage Take a Joke

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a young man for about six months. I'm 17 and he's 23. We always had good times together and I thought he was fond of me. But the other day my young brother and some of his little friends thought of a trick to play on us.

They went to the home of one of the other little boys and one of them called my friend to the phone, and disguised his voice to sound like mine. They kidded him along and then hung up. Then they called me up too, but I caught on right away and kidded back to them.

But it seems that he can't take a joke, and now he won't speak to me. When I see him he snubs me. I treated him swell, and we used to have good times at my house, dancing and playing the piano and singing. Now he talks to other boys about me.

WORRIED

At the delightful age of 17 why worry about a young man so lacking in many of the essentials? If he couldn't tell the difference between your voice and that of a young child playing a prank, it looks as if he were not particularly bright, doesn't it?

And a boy who will talk about a girl with whom he has been on such friendly terms is not well bred, is he? How can you talk to him, if he won't even look at you on the street?

I've not told all you've confided about this young man, and I hope you'll forgive me for saying I think you've been very foolish. I suggest you find some friends who are more worthy of a nice girl friend.

Wedding Notes

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

I am to be married informally in my aunt's home at an evening wedding. We are planning to have about 75 guests.

I am in considerable doubt as to the invitations. Should they be merely informal notes, written by my mother, or should I send engraved invitations?

READER.

Your word "informally" is the keynote for the answer to your question. Best taste for invitations to an informal wedding is notes of invitation. Formal, engraved invitations would indicate that the wedding is to a formal one.

Your mother might write these notes of invitation, to be signed by her, but, in the body of the note, to include your aunt's invitation, since in this case both your aunt and your mother would be hostesses at your wedding.

NEW LIPSTICK THAT STAYS ON

Don Juan—the lipstick that stays on—was an instant hit when Valdor launched it in Paris. Now it is being made in America, for YOU. Try it.

With Don Juan you can drink, smoke, eat, and even kiss without leaving tell-tale traces. Yet it does not dry or chap the lips. It gives a natural effect, yet imparts a warm, alluring freshness to your lips. It does away with a greasy, "painted look."

Sophisticated women find in Don Juan exactly the qualities and colors they want. A wide range of smart shades. Only $1.00. *Sold abroad under the name "Cutex"

Ready for School Lunches

By MARTHA LEE

"There's no place like home," is probably what mothers think when they return from vacations. It means that once more they can concentrate on a definite program of living.

If there are children, the first thought is getting them ready for the opening of school—which, this year, is September 7.

SCHOOL LUNCHES

Mothers' enthusiasm is often dampened by the prospect of preparing a box lunch five days a week. It's a simple matter to fix up a nice lunch occasionally, but when you have to do it day after day it becomes a real problem. The easiest way to handle school lunches is to plan for them in advance, just as you plan for any other meal. Keep a supply of lunch materials on hand all the time—different kinds of crackers and cookies and breads, sandwich spreads, jellies, cheese and fruits.

"BACK-HOME-TO-BUY"

With the "Back-Home-to-Buy" movement in mind, we've been doing a little scouting around to aid in preparing lunch boxes. First, we'd like to suggest that you go to your own grocer and take a look at his shelves and see the variety they offer. If you are in town, make it a point to go into the grocery departments and see the displays of good things. You'll get all sorts of fine ideas.

There are tiny individual jars of jellies, jams and even relishes that will just fit into the lunch box. When the contents are eaten, the jars can be thrown away. Then we saw little stone and pottery jars filled with jellies and preserves, etc.—the sight of which would entice any child or inspire him to eat. Pickles and spreads there were too numerous to mention and cheeses in handy sizes, wrapped in foil.

THE CRACKER COUNTER

Then we looked over the cracker counter. Crackers are great time savers. Sandwiches can be whisked together in two minutes, while the children are still eating their cereal at breakfast—and their size permits variety in the lunch. Children like graham crackers—and soda crackers, too; or those dainty little rounds called butter wafers. All these make delightful mouthsful when spread with cream cheese, peanut butter, apple butter, jelly or preserves.

We saw, too, some varieties of delicate toast which come in handy packages all ready for use. They make excellent carriers for sliced ham, tongue, and other meats. A few crunchy pretzels thrown in as extra tidbits to nibble on, provide the much desired "surprise" that children love.

Remember that milk, hot drinks and hot soups can be carried conveniently in thermos bottles.

There's really endless variety in contents for lunch boxes if we'll take time to plan—and to shop around.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE

By DAMON RUNYON

Public Enemy No. 1 to the peace and security of these United States of America, will probably presently be something called Propaganda.

According to the dictionary, Propaganda is "effort directed systematically toward gaining of public support for an opinion or course of action."

We never heard much about Propaganda, at least under that name, until the World War. Then it came along in various guises to gradually work this country into a ferment that finally got us into plenty of trouble.

It is our guess that old Propaganda will soon be snooping around with the same idea in view—to get us into trouble. Americans are just natural-born set-ups for Propaganda, a trait that the late George Tex Rickard, the prize fight promoter, discovered years ago without needing a war to make the discovery, either.

Only Tex did not call his Propaganda by that name. He called it Ballyhoo. He found out that it was possible to make the public believe almost anything he wanted it to believe by consistent Ballyhoo. He made the public believe some strange things, too. He made it believe that Georges Carpentier had a chance to lick Jack Dempsey.

The fundamental idea of Tex' Ballyhoo was to get the public steamed up in its belief and that is also the fundamental idea of Propaganda, though there never was any of the fearful danger in Ballyhoo that Propaganda presents.

Americans seldom immediately recognize Propaganda for what it is. We generally accept Propaganda at its face value.

We are a cinch for Propaganda because we are ready and sympathetic listeners and quick to choose sides. Probably 95 per cent of us have already mentally chosen sides in the new war and that makes it all the more certain that the inevitable Propaganda is going to be a mighty dangerous enemy to our national quiet when it gets hitting good on the proposition that we ought to join the disorder.

Oddly enough, the most cherished elements of our American way of life—free thought and free speech—aid the enemy, Propaganda. It is the inalienable right of any citizen of the United States to think or say that we ought to take a hand in the war, and the menace is that when Propaganda goes into action, too many citizens may be thinking and saying just that.

Right now if you asked the average American citizen what he thought of the idea of the United States joining in the war, he would probably shudder, yet they were shuddering for several years at the same idea before the world war. Then Propaganda eventually got in its deadly stuff. It took a long time, but Propaganda is patient and persistent.

Moreover, it is most insidious. It works from without and within, and it works everywhere. It sometimes takes the form of wild rumor and of dinner table and bar room conversations. It develops into public meetings and into ringing resolutions of protest and sympathy and into parades with martial music and flag wavings.

Now these are minor considerations, we grant you, but they all help the thing start working. It was a mere detail that before we got in trouble the last time, there were many dapper figures in our streets in the neatly fitting uniforms of the foreign nations involved. Yet they were here for the definite purposes of Propaganda. Their very appearance in martial array in a peaceful country was Propaganda.

It is all very well to tell Americans that they should remain neutral in times like these, but Americans individually never are neutral in thought and speech when there is a row afoot. They would bitterly resent any restraint in that direction as a liberty upon their liberties.

We are quite sure that all Americans at this time, however their sympathies may lie, devoutly hope that the United States stays out of the war. How they feel about it if the war is of long duration is another matter. It probably depends on how they receive Propaganda when it comes whispering in the national ear.

The PRIVATE LIFE of Dr. Hilary

by HENRY and SYLVIA LIEFERANT

AUTHORS OF "DOCTORS' WIVES"

ON THE DAY after the Hilarys quarreled, Nora drove downtown and returned two theater tickets, which Martin had forgotten about anyway. She could not imagine herself laughing and enjoying a play with a stranger who had asked her not to interfere with his affairs.

That night after dinner they sat in the living room, not three feet apart, yet as separate as Cape Horn and the North Pole, and as frigid.

Several times during the day Martin's hand had reached for the telephone to call Nora, and yet he had not called her. Days on end, at the operating table he felt her presence at his elbow, as on that day when she had taken the retractor from him, and at such times he called her on the completion of the operation to report.

Today she had not been with him at all, and not having called her in the morning, he could not bring himself to invent a pretext.

DISCORD

Her cool cheek turned to him in greeting, the tensity at table, now her utter immersion in the sweater she was knitting for Peter maddened him. To Martin discord was unbearable. It impaired his efficiency. A serious disagreement with Nora was so frightening that it actually interfered with the free stream of his work.

Peter, like his father, was sensitive to any inharmonious conditions, and before the child was sent to bed he had been argumentative and rebellious, verging on the impudent. Martin had tried to be patient with him as had Nora, each aware of the source of the boy's upset.

He should have seen it coming, of course. He went back into the past months, as far as two years, and picked out incidents wherein she had shut herself away from him. He had not regarded them at the time as criticism, or even ordinary fault-finding. Nora was not really a nagger, and yet now he viewed those incidents as infinitesimal mounds finally culminating in this barrier. What did she expect of him after all?

Way to Relieve Itchy Pimples

When your skin is irritated with pimples, red blotches and other skin blemishes from external causes, and you're crazy with itching torture, here's quick relief. Get a 35c box of Peterson's Ointment at your druggist and apply this delightful soothing balm. Itching stops promptly. Smarting disappears. Your skin looks better, feels better. Also wonderful for itching feet, cracks between toes. Try it.

"Thanks." Then Nora added as if she were talking to herself, "Thanks for what?"

Seeking to draw her back through the same avenue which had separated them, he said presently, "Social Service called me up late this afternoon and asked me about the Dixon girl. I assured them she hasn't a cent or any means of obtaining it. I managed to call off the dogs of investigation. They'll admit her tomorrow without sending a snooper up."

Directly he spoke, he was sorry he had opened the conversation. The clicking of her needles ceased. The unfinished yellow sweater fell in a cascade down the front of her green dress. She was pale, and in the lamplight the tawny pinpoints in her eyes glittered.

"That was nice of you, Martin." Her voice told him nothing; so he said, "I sent down the plates and test results."

"Thanks." Then she added, as if she were talking to herself, "Thanks for what?"

He pushed the Journal of Surgery from him and ruffled his hair. "Do we have to go through all that again, Nora?"

"It would be quite useless." The colder she became, the more electric her presence.

Martin felt like a man waiting for a fuse to touch off the dynamite. He wanted to avoid the fuse but did not know where it was connected.

"Nora, why won't you see that I can't create any such precedent as to take that girl in hand?"

"Who would know the facts except you and the girl and me?"

PRECEDENT

"It gets around among the nurses and interns."

"Not if Phoebe keeps the secret. When you're on service as chief you have ward patients who don't pay anything. You get your salary from the hospital."

"Doesn't everybody know I'm not on service?"

"You talk of precedent like a diplomat whose every move, even whose clothes are watched because he represents an important nation."

"I don't think I'm that important, but certainly the younger men look to us to set a standard."

She bent to pick up her knitting, ripped a row and resumed her work. Her voice was changed when next she spoke, throaty, full, the voice in which she said good night to him after his last kiss. "Martin, don't you ever want to do anything spontaneously? Haven't you ever been so moved by a person's illness or unhappiness that you just had to pick up the telephone and do something, without drawing a legal brief, for and against?

"If you heard a sudden cry for help, would you stand for hours going into the philosophy of helping? When was the last time you spontaneously gave to a needy person? You don't have to answer me. You can't remember the last time a poor patient got any consideration in your office."

She was so right that he was furious. He was determined now to get to the seed of her implacable demand. "You see everybody's problem but mine, Nora. There's one thing we haven't touched on and that's the responsibility involved in surgery."

"That's one of the conditions you accept in advance, isn't it? It's like motherhood."

He didn't hear. He went on, arranging his thoughts in the order in which they were to be used. "A patient looks to me for everything. He puts his life into my hands. No money can really pay for the responsibility I assume. Then there's the aftercare, the watchfulness during convalescence, sometimes night vigils. A man must have some compensation for it, because if things go wrong, I'm to blame. At least with a charity patient the hospital assumes the responeibility, not the surgeon."

She regarded his argument as the heighth and depths of fallacy. "You mean the hospital assumes legal responsibility. How can anybody shoulder your moral responsibility?"

A MENTAL CANE

"Oh, I used to be a nurse." She rose, walked to the window. In watching the long, gradual curves of her body translated into the flowing, gliding movements of her walk, he felt they had been estranged for years.

"I used to know a young surgeon," she said in a far-away voice, "who abhorred stiffness, who detested society doctors with spats and canes. He's one himself now, with a mental cane and spats. I remember a young interne who risked his job criticizing his chief because he thought the chief was causing unnecessary pain to a patient."

"I've never needlessly hurt a patient in my life—even in the clinics!"

"I remember an older man, but still young," she continued, talking to the fog and the night, "who inherited a practice from a Dr. Arnold. His only return was to care for Dr. Arnold's grave. Funny, nothing was said about keeping the deceased from turning over in his grave."

"Don't you put it that way, Nora," he warned.

"I'm doing it."

He shifted, crossed and uncrossed his long legs. His eyes were stony blue, unresponsive. "You know I've always tried to do the best I could for you, Nora—I'm—"

"Don't," she interrupted "Don't tell me all you've done for me—this apartment, a car, physical comforts, clothes and furs, a summer cottage on the North Shore. You can spare me inventory, Martin. I asked you a question that requires only 'Yes' or 'No' for an answer. You hesitate—and that means 'No.' Very well!"

She crossed to the secretary behind him. He picked up his Journal but could not read. He had meant to refuse her request, and she had anticipated the refusal. He heard her pen whistling across paper, then a short tearing sound, the waving of paper. All this time she continued talking.

A CRUEL BLOW!

"If I wanted a sea trip, you'd tell me to go ahead, get clothes, the best accommodations regardless of cost. You've been very good to me, even given me a bank account, a stagnant one because I haven't much use for it. Well then—" She reached over his shoulder and dropped a slip of paper on the magazine. "Here's a check of a thousand dollars for you. I'm paying you to operate on Phoebe Dixon!"

He leaped as if he had been shot. The Journal and the check flew into the air, fluttered to the floor. "Nora!" he gasped.

"The bed and her care are arranged for. Now there's nothing to stop you."

"Nora!" again. His voice rang with horror. His face was contorted as once she had seen it after he had witnessed a street accident. "Do you know what you're doing?"

"What are you doing?" she demanded. "You won't do what I ask. You don't care about human beings—only surgery. You want to be paid for everything you do, and you won't be responsible for my debts—"

"Debts?" he repeated flatly.

Nora almost regretted her step, but not quite.

"Of course this is a debt I owe Mrs. Dixon. If I can pay it except with money—"

"You promised that girl I would do the operation. "Well, then why didn't you tell me?" he asked, bewildered.

"You would have told me that I had no right to promise—as I see now—I didn't."

FORGIVENESS

Across the gap which their quarrel had torn, they gazed at each other with hypnotic challenge. All of their life and marriage hung suspended between them in the waiting hush of the room. Their shared recollections, their emotions pyramided to this awful point. Their struggles and triumphs.

"May I—" Martin said with a softness that stabbed, "may I beg a kiss of forgiveness from a gallant lady?"

Nora went to pieces, then. She swayed into his arms, leaned heavily against the tight, strong length of his body; through scalding tears saw his face close, ready to claim the gift he had asked. His lips pressed hard against hers, hurting and healing her at the same time, renewing all those promises inherent in him lead her, blindfolded by his love, into the bedroom.

"Nora, that was a brutal thing I said to you last night—about not interfering."

"Shall we forget it, Martin—never refer to it?"

"I want you to know I still hold you responsible for my success—such as it is."

GIVE PEOPLE FOOD, WORK, HENRY FORD'S WAR CURE

Here is the second of three "conversations" with Henry Ford, the country's leading industrialist and one of its richest men, in which he expresses what he believes about possible American participation in the war. The first appeared in The Sunday Advertiser.

By GEORGE W. CLARKE
Copyright, 1939, by the Boston Evening American

"Those who have plunged the world into war have neither love nor pity within them . . ."

It is Henry Ford speaking, backing up a previous assertion in which he declared that, barring invasion, the United States will not take part in the war which, now, threatens the destruction of European civilization.

Problems of the world are clear in Henry Ford's mind. His beliefs are sharply cut. War, he thinks, is silly, a monstrous contrivance made possible by the machinations of a few men who will profit by it. It results, he believes, from the plotting of munitions makers, international financiers, who are unwilling to give up their grip on the world and its finances.

And the reasons for the present conflict are clear in his mind.

NATIONS ARE HUNGRY

Nations are hungry. Nations must be fed. Nations will fight for food. Some are producer nations. Some are merchant nations. Conflict is inevitable. Conflict directed by those who can profit from it the most.

"England," he says, "won't feed herself."

There is a mist over the fields here at Wayside Inn, Sudbury, where, in the Edison room, the conversation is being held. Mr. Ford, certain of his thoughts backed as they are by the wisdom of his 76 years, rocks slowly in the horsehair-covered chair.

"Eleven years ago," he says, reminiscently, "I had a conversation with a great British statesman.

"'We can't feed ourselves,' he told me. 'We've got to import the food we eat.'

"'I don't believe it,' I told him. 'And just to prove it, I'm going to buy a farm here in England to show you that you can.'

"So Mrs. Ford and I looked around and bought a farm, about twenty miles southeast of London. It's three thousand acres, and to get so much, we had to buy a lot of farms. Why Anne Boleyn's home is on that property, and there's a house there older than this one."

International News Photograph Service
HENRY FORD
Experiments

And he looked around the room of the Inn in which he sat, a room in which LaFayette once rested himself.

"So we put in some machinery," he continued, "and, do you know, one year we sold $50,000 worth of Brussels sprouts out of there.

"It's a school now like this one—" and he gestured over the hills towards a white house, invisible from the window, but, there, nevertheless, where 51 boys, wards of the state, are being taught by Ford millions to be better citizens of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"Every year we take in about thirty or more little Britishers, and we teach 'em mechanical farming, and take in another batch."

He is silent for a moment and then:

"They just won't work the ground."

There is a pause, and, suddenly, he gets to his feet.

"Come with me," he said, "I want to show you something."

Down the old stairs, and out onto the stoop—and there is a little boy with his mother, and a woman friend. We get into the car, always waiting at the door, and we are about to close the door, he leans out.

"Want to go along, sonny," he says, "that is, if you're mother will let you. Will you, ma'm?"

The mother, caught unawares, is flustered, but nods consent. The youngster, who identifies himself later as William Bryce Seaman, Jr., aged 9, of Newtonville, springs forward joyously, and is soon nestled in beside his new friend, the great Henry Ford.

"He's a city boy," says Mr. Ford, over the seat, "city boys belong on farms."

And as we speed over narrow black roads, all on the inn's property, he goes on—

"About a year ago a man came to me from England, as a result of that farming experiment, and he asked me to set up a line of 3600 tractors over there—you know, like beans in a quill, take a dozen off the front end, and put a dozen on behind.

"With the threat of war, England is ready for mechanical farming, is ready to see if she can feed herself. I know she can.

"But, you see, if England fed herself there'd be less shipping, less trading. There wouldn't be any innumerable profits of middlemen, handling goods to one another. And that's all a part of the money scheme."

TRACTOR HIS PRIDE, JOY

And now it's a windswept hillside, with fresh gusts of misty rain driving in over the trees, and before us a little, battleship gray tractor is turning the green sod into brown earth at an almost unbelievable rate. Row after row, the brown ribbon widens before our eyes.

"That's the thing which is going to help to end all wars," says Henry Ford.

"Harry Ferguson, of Belfast, Ireland, invented it," continues Mr. Ford, "and to my way of thinking it is as important as anything ever invented by Marconi or Edison.

"The way to end all wars, to spur on civilization to the heights it must attain is to make food cheaper and easier to produce. That's what this does."

And then he bares an amazing story. No later than last week Ferguson, the Irish inventor, cabled to him offering to waive world rights in his invention, urging that Ford communicate with both Hitler and Mussolini at once in an effort to prevent the war, offering the invention to them free if they would manufacture and distribute it.

"And that," says Mr. Ford, "is as philanthropic a gesture as any I ever heard of."

GIVE PEOPLE FOOD

"Give people plenty of food," he says, and it is the immutable truth, "and plenty of work to do, and there will never be another war."

But now Billy, proud as Punch, is at the wheel of the contraption, and, in high glee, is driving it down the furrows, turning over the good earth beneath him. All alone he reaches the end, stops, turns around and drives back again.

"Gee!" he exults, "this is fun!"

On the way back to inn the conversation is resumed.

"There is so much to be done in the world," says Mr. Ford.

"Why, out in Dearborn right now we are making better milk than a cow can produce.

"Yes, sir, we take some soy bean oil, some carrots, buckwheat and other materials and we turn out a milk that is so good that boys we put on a diet of it feel better than others on straight milk.

"We're going to fix it up in a powder so that all anybody who wants a drink of milk will have to do is add eighty-two per cent water, stir it up and drink it.

"Not," he added, "that we're going to do anything with it commercially—we're just getting it ready for anybody to do with what they want."

How the same forces which make wars create depressions will be explained by Henry Ford in tomorrow's Evening American in the third, and last, of these conversations.

BACK-HOME-TO-BUY SPURT THRONGS BOSTON STORES

That fresh, new page on the calendar headed September signifies it's time for a fresh new wardrobe, from top to toe. This Back-Home-to-Buy event is a family affair, a home affair, a purchasing program that covers a wide range of actual needs and exciting extras that promote pride in possession.

In many communities the streets were thronged today with children bound for school opening. Meantime, Mother will be downtown buying plaid dresses, knickers, sturdy shoes and other essentials for juvenile wardrobes.

And she'll try on some of the intriguing new hats. Then perhaps, a visit to the coat department to see how the new grape shade treats her complexion, only to find that it is flattering to nearly every complexion.

My, my, and what a bustle! It's on an evening gown with lines that say, "If you wear me, it's hips, hips away." Yes, indeed corsets are in again and on and the reason is the wasp waist line.

There's Dad, too. Though he may pretend he's not interested in the fact that one of the new double-breasted models might look smart on him, he's taken many a sly peep in the store windows and expects to be duly appreciated when he unfolds the new suit from the tissue wrapping, that is, if he is a lone shopper. Often he does find it an advantage to have the always helpful guidance of the feminine half of the partnership.

Then there are home needs to consider. What a difference it would make if the living room were given a new lease of life with a new sofa. Or a lounge chair that will lure the Mister for evenings of comfort.

Wouldn't a new rug unify the living room floor? And those bedroom curtains you vowed to replace last spring, why not do something about them now? Of course, that set of dinnerware WAS lovely once. But what with missing pieces, chipping and other casualties, there really is need for replacement. So why not go gay and not Gay Nineties? Get some of the colorful ware that lifts a cheery note to every meal.

HAT-TRACTIVE—Eunice Caplan grows lyrical over the fall creation that she has picked out . . . and prepares to go out and make other gals envious with her selection. Meanwhile, thousands of Boston women are back-in-Boston-to-buy.

What's New In Footwear

In women's shoes there is continued interest in high riding, smooth-fitting footwear. The use of leather or elasticized materials has grown steadily and further improvements will be seen in this factor of style and fit.

The new back fullness of skirts this season is one reason why the new pumps with a shorter vamp, a tiny toe opening, and slightly higher heel giving a forward tilt, will find favor. Open toes will still be "in" but, as noted, the opening is smaller.

In addition to pumps, which are highly favored for first fall shoes, built-up step-ins and medium built-up ties are high-lighted.

GREEN HUES LIVEN NEW MEN'S WEAR

There are blue greens, gray greens and mixtures, but all tend to the touch of brightness this fresh tone achieves.

The greatest percentage of suits are in tweeds, than which there is nothing more masculine. They may be the harder finished, made-to-stand-hard-usage weaves, or the fabrics with woolier nap that has collegiate appeal. So you can't go wrong in having at least one of your suits tweed.

If you're asking, single or double-breasted models, the answer is—first in favor the single-breasted model with notched lapel. Notched lapel is stressed because that will be the staple style, but higher style, and growing in popularity is the peaked lapel on the same three-button models. Three is the button word, by the way, not two. Double-breasted? Yes, if you can boast not too capacious "corporate" dimensions and are tall. In sports coats, Boston men still prefer the belted back model, elsewhere they're back to the plain back.

Hats have higher crowns and broader brims. Shoes have heavy, double roll soles of the cushions type. Tips may be wing or medallion, hand treated soles are new.

Military Influence Shown In Jewelry

Perhaps you are wondering how the larger earrings will look. Don't just wonder—try them on! It's quite to be expected that the military influence would register in gold jewelry. And jewelled slide fasteners are used on gloves, sweaters and bags. It's definitely a Paris vogue. Time spent in the costume jewelry departments and stores will be a thrilling investment.

HAT-TENTION!—Carrie Sheridan has chosen an eye-filling chapeau for her fall season . . . and she renews her faith in herself as a picker-outer of hats by a quick glance in the mirror. The autumn styles accentuate femininity.

COLORS FOR HOUSE ADD HOME APPEAL

It is a wholesome trend that has been growing during the past few years—a trend towards more home life, and enjoyment of the articles designed for comfort and beauty within the four walls where so much time is spent. Home is what you make it. It can and should be a source of pride.

In decoration, while there are some touches of the modern, the strongest vogue for this season takes its inspiration from the Eighteenth Century.

So dominant is the vogue that it includes living room, dining room and bedroom. When you see the various pieces, you're bound to realize that they possess a quality of liveableness that endures; their beauty and the soft-toned rich woods have lasting appeal. Mahogany is the old-new favorite. Of especial significance are the brown-toned mahoganies which lend themselves so admirably to various color schemes for other decorations in the room.

Speaking of decorations brings up the ever-present question of how to co-ordinate color schemes, in the living room for example. Here is a situation in which creative genius has made news of importance, one of the most important developments that has ever been established to aid the average homemaker.

Based on the now well-established fact that the sofa and two chairs, which constitute the principal pieces in the living room, need not all have the monotonous sameness in upholstery, this benefactor to Mrs. Average Homemaker has worked out what is called a "Co-Selective" scheme in upholstery.

Here Are Few Style Hints In Hub Stores

Narrower skirts are a fashion keynote for evening gowns, though wide skirts are still in the picture. The narrow effect is enhanced by sheaths that are not too tight, and bustle skirts.

STOCKINGS — Glamour girls know that the proper shade and texture of stockings add tremendously to their allure . . . and the new fall colors and kinds have everything!

Fall Hats Make You Pretty!

The snood, which ventured into the fashion picture last season, again drapes gracefully from fall hats. Of course, it is definitely youthful but color of the hair does not intrude on its appeal. A black snood of net or shimmering silk sets off blonde curls; more colorful will be chosen by brunettes and girls with titian tresses are sure to find a tone that adds allure.

Feathers and fur are much in evidence. For town and informal wear coq and ostrich feathers are utilized to curtain the back hair. The paddle-shaped condor quill in natural colorings is liked because it may be placed anywhere to gain width or height for the silhouette.

DRESS FABRIC VARIETY

You can borrow from $30 to $300 without going to see with you. Decide the amount of cash you have then choose the payment which suits your budget. You may repay in as few as 6 months or over twenty months. Below is a table showing sample repayment schedules. Other amounts and other plans are available. Note how you may repay your loan in a very few months to keep the cost to a minimum. Note, also, what small payments can be made if you wish.

| Cash Loan You Get | Amount you pay back each month (including all charges) for following periods | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 2 mos. | 4 mos. | 6 mos. | 8 mos. | 10 mos. | 12 mos. | 16 mos. | 20 mos. |
| $ 50 | $25.64 | $13.29 | $ 9.08 | $ 6.97 | $ 5.71 | $ 4.87 | | |
| 100 | 51.88 | 26.58 | 18.15 | 13.95 | 11.43 | 9.75 | $ 7.66 | $ 6.41 |
| 150 | 77.82 | 39.88 | 27.23 | 20.92 | 17.14 | 14.62 | 11.49 | 9.62 |
| 200 | 103.77 | 53.16 | 36.31 | 27.89 | 22.85 | 19.50 | 15.32 | 12.83 |
| 300 | 155.65 | 79.75 | 54.46 | 41.84 | 34.28 | 29.25 | 22.98 | 19.24 |

This chart based on prompt repayment. Payments may be made in advance of the day they are due if you wish. Advance payment reduces the cost of your loan proportionately since you pay interest only for the time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household standard of 2½ per month, which is less than the lawful maximum.

SAM HARRIS PRODUCTION TO OPEN BOSTON'S STAGE SEASON

Premiere Set For Plymouth

By PEGGY DOYLE
Drama Editor

With the nationwide amusement strike averted and the difficulties between the American Federation of Actors and the parent union, the Associated Actors and Artists of America satisfactorily adjusted the show can go on

Which means that three weeks from last night which should be September 25, Boston will be getting a preview of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," the first play of the new season, at the Plymouth Theater.

This Sam H Harris production is co-authored by that fabulously successful writing team, George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, and will feature Monte Woolley in the role originally tailored for the voluminous Alexander Woollcott. Mr Woolley of the distinguishing beard is the former instructor at Yale. No stars but a flock of featured players head the cast.

On October 2, at the Wilbur, local playgoers will have an opportunity to attend the Hub premiere of "No Time For Comedy," the S. N. Behrman play, starring Katharine Cornell, Francis Lederer, who recently succeeded Laurence Olivier as the leading man, is a favorite here. This has been one of Broadway's top hits the past season.

Along about the second week of October—the date has not been set pending Raymond Massey's return from the West Coast and completion of the film version of last season's out-standing dramatic hit—"Abe Lincoln in Illinois" is expected to put in an appearance. As indicated, Mr. Massey will résume the role he created on stage and screen.

"The Hot Mikado," with Bill Robinson and now on view at the New York World's Fair, will open in Boston on October 30.

Playing opposition to Miss Cornell's opening this first Monday next month will be George Abbott's "Too Many Girls," which is pausing at the Shubert in between its New Haven debut and its Broadway premiere.

Definitely due at the Plymouth Theater October 23 is "Outward Bound," with Lucette Taylor, who has been too long absent from the local rialto.

"Outbound" set something of a record last season on Broadway where it had a longer run than did the original production. But, as the exuberant and highly popular "Helizapoppin" proved, anything can happen there

Although Tallulah Bankhead's most successful American play, "The Little Foxes," has not yet been booked in, it is probable but not positive that we'll be seeing it here the latter part of next month.

Another possibility thereabouts is the new Zeigfeld Follies, which opened but not too auspiciously in San Francisco a couple of months ago. The Shuberts have ordered considerable rewriting of everything except the title, as well as a new deal in stars.

In the offing is a Dwight Deere Wiman musical, starring "Angel" Zorina of last season's delightful Wiman musical, "I Married An Angel."

"My Dead Children," with the one and only John Barrymore, is labbed in for Boston when Chicago stops going ga-ga over the play and the star. The combination is doing so well there that double-s both Thanksgivings will have been celebrated before the Barrymore vehicle rolls into Tremont street.

LOEW'S-BOUND—Comes Hayward and Joan Bennett in a scene from "The Man in the Iron Mask," opening Thursday at Loew's State and Orpheum.

Boston Presents 'Kid From Kokomo'

RKO Boston Theater today presents as its two-feature program, "The Kid From Kokomo," Warner Brothers' fight drama with Pat O'Brien, Wayne Morris and Joan Blondell, and "Charlie Chan in Reno," latest in the exciting series of mysteries which the famous sleuth solves after several breath-taking adventures.

Columbia's Gala Revue

Kay Johnson

Bevy of Stars At Old Howard

Amy Fong

Both are talented performers as well as celebrated beauties and each has brought with her to the Old Howard show a new and lively song and dance routine.

Presiding over the comedy department are Billy "Cheese 'n Crackers" Hagan and Billy Fields, well-known comics. Whistling Charles Harris is master of ceremonies. For face-and-figger appeal there are Jean Wade and Vickie Welles. Specialty artists are Wyn and Huwyn, acrobatic dancers, Denny Lyons, ventriloquist; Jordan and Grace, novelty musicians; Carol and Sue Robatt, song and dance team, and Nita Warren.

On the screen are "St. Louis Blues," with Dorothy Lamour and Lloyd Nolan, and "Disbarred," with Otto Kruger an Gail Patrick.

'Andy Hardy' Film At the Olympia

Dunne-MacMurray Hit at Normandie

Ogunquit Play Season Enters Final Week

Terminating the most successful season in its history, Walter Hartwig's Ogunquit Playhouse tonight enters its final week with a performance of "Payment Deferred." It will be played nightly at 8:30 with a Friday matinee at 2:30.

This is the play that brought Charles Laughton to America for his first outstanding success in 1931. It was adapted by Jeffrey Dell from the C. S. Forester novel.

William Sweetland will play the Laughton role in Mr. Hartwig's Manhattan Theater Company production. Others in the cast will be Diana Rivers, Eve March, Damian O'Flynn, Philip Faversham and Richard Rauber.

"Timbuktu," a new play by Elizabeth Miele will be given a tryout performance at Skowhegan, Me., during the week starting tonight. This will be the Lakewood Players' fifteenth play and their fourth tryout this season with two more weeks to go.

Miss Miele is the author of "City Hall" and "Did I Say No?" Melville Burke is staging the production which will have Frederic Tozere in the lead.

At Fitchburg, the Lake Whalom Theater announces the Belasco show, "It's a Wise Child," with Hollywood's popular Michael Whalen in the leading role.

The Red Barn Theater at Westboro will begin its 12th week tonight with "The Milky Way," by Lynn Root and Harry Clork.

• • •

"Of Mice and Men," with Lauren Kenyon Woods and Dick Burgess, will be this week's offering at the Lippit Theater, Ashton, R. I.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5. After all the hubbub and hurrah its Joan Fontaine who gets "Rebecca." Contracts were being drawn for her signature and unless something unfortunate arises, she will sign today.

If all the actresses who have been nominated for the role of the meek little Mrs. De Winter were lined up, they'd reach from here to Kokomo. I can't help believing that Joan's swell performance in "The Women" had a lot to do with David Selznick's decision to give her the plum role.

It was the first time Mrs. Brian Aherne had let down her back hair and really shown what she could do as an actress. From here on in keep an eye on that little lady for she has what it takes.

Will Merle Oberon finish her contract with Samuel Goldwyn or will she elect to remain by the side of her husband, Alexander Korda? That's a weighty question that only she can answer. Sam expected Merle back November 1 and had all his studio force working to find a story for her. Then she postponed her trip to America until February which didn't help the strained relations between the two men.

Korda, one of the defendants in the United Artists' suit recently brought by Goldwyn, naturally wants his wife in his own picture. The Oberon contract is shared jointly by Korda and Goldwyn and even in the past there was always a feeling on Korda's side that she was kept in Hollywood too long.

Barking Dogs All Over Dial

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We sure got a load of that European war talk. They say barking dogs don't bite. But they don't have to.

If a barking dog barks enough he can make a man bite himself.

It was last year that we suggested a no news-from-Europe-week. We haven't got any shirts in that laundry, anyway.

If we can go a week without news from Europe, we can make it a perpetual, self-funding holiday. It isn't any entertainment to have barking dogs all over the dial.

WAR SENDS U. S. RAW HIDE PRICES ZOOMING

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

All doubts concerning the question of "war or not to war" disturbing the Boston leather market and the New England shoe manufacturers were resolved over the week-end. And both trades can now consider their situation and outlook in the light of past experience.

Hides are a little publicized commodity that, together with sugar, is capable of out-zooming all the others.

For hides make it possible for marching men to take to the battlefields which so avidly consume copper, steel, grains, sugar, cloth, rubber, oil and powder.

And in this regrettable conflict America will be the big mass production source of this essential need of war.

It means the great packing houses of the West, in which this section has long had a principal financial interest, and the immense shoe factories of the East, largely located in New England, face boom times.

SOLE SORCE OF SUPPLY

To them will come buyers from strife torn Europe; to them the demand of the world, South America particularly, will be diverted; and upon them will rest the responsibility of filling domestic requirements sure to enlarge as recovery speeds.

A prospect calculated to startle the most imaginative trader in hides. And it did. As dealers withdrew offerings last week and packers held back in fear of higher prices speculators turned to the futures market in New York.

They literally poured orders into the brokerage offices with a result that must have astounded watchers forgetful of what happened in 1914.

LITTLE ATTENTION

While the stock markets were closed and traders were concentrating on wheat and flour the price of standard light native cow hides lifted from around 19 cents a pound in August 1914 to above 22 cents by December.

And that was only the beginning as later years saw the price move much higher.

For the two days, September 1st and 2d, the high, low and last are given. Which means the low of the first and the high of the second with the final price representing the quick correction from top prices accompanying Allied delay in declaring war.

SURPLUS FOR NEEDS

While Europe anxiously scans the sources capable of supplying oil for the needs of the war machines the United States contends with supply factors imperiling an already too low price structure.

The chart of crude oil trends presented today shows the why of this paradox.

Stocks of crude it will be noted have steadily trended downward over the past 10 years. On the surface this trend, no matter how slight, should be a bulwark of strength for prices.

And it would be under ordinary conditions.

But, as we once heard an estute observer chuckle, this is America the land of plenty, the land of the economic paradox.

The new discovery curve on the chart shows how underground proven discoveries have risen from 11 billion barrels in 1929 to about 18 billion barrels in 1939. Only the most severe depression stages did the successful hunt for oil fail to uncover less than one billion barrels of new supply annually.

Foreign Markets

PARIS, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Bourse easily took care of all offerings—which were not large today. Prices, where changed were a little lower. Quotations were lacking for many stocks due to absence of bids and offers. Oils showed a strong price trend.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 5 (AP)—Cotton futures bounded 25 points today, the newly imposed maximum gain permitted in a day's trade. General buying reflected immediate need for the staple. Trading in wheat futures was suspended by government order.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5 (AP)—American and selected domestic issues rallied in the Bourse late today after a hesitant and slightly lower opening. Buying was encouraged by the spectacular forward drive in New York.

LONDON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The stock market remained closed today.

U. S. Gold Arrivals

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—About $36,000,000 in gold arrived today on the liners President Roosevelt and Samaria. Yesterday the Queen Mary brought $45,550,000.

War Boom Sweeps Stocks Up 2 to 19

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—A war-boom stock market, one of the fastest in the history of the exchange, today swept up favorites 2 to 19 points.

Opening for the first time since the general European outbreak, and taking a cue from previous mounting prices at Amsterdam, steels, oils, sugar, coppers, zincs, aircrafts, farm implements, motors, electrical equipments and chemicals changed hands in blocks of 1000 to 40,000 shares. Profit taking stemmed the tide and some quotations were well down top levels before the close.

Traders, envisaging huge purchases of all sorts of materials by England and France, as well as by neutral countries, scrambled for stocks of companies which are expected to benefit by war prices. Some utilities and mail orders were among the exceptions to the rise. Rails joined in after a hesitant start.

The ticker tape was as much as minutes behind during the greater part of the session as frantic brokers attempted to execute the jam of orders. A number of leaders, owing to absence of offerings were not traded for more than an hour. Governors of the stock exchange were at the principal posts on the floor to keep the proceedings as orderly as possible.

Prominent on the upsurge were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber, International Harvester, Standard Oil of N. J., Continental Oil, Armour, Wilson & Co., Calumet & Hecla, Callahan Zinc, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright, Westinghouse, Western Union, Fajardo Sugar, Cuban-American Sugar, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Dow Chemical.

PRICE BOOM SHOWN

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—Here are some prices of raw commodities in primary markets today, compared with where they were last Thursday, before "war" became pronounced.

| | Today | Thurs. |
|---|---|---|
| Wheat (Sept.-Bu.) | .81⅜ | .67⅛ |
| Corn (Sept.-Bu.) | .53⅛ | .43⅞ |
| Hides (Sept.-Lb.) | .13¾ | .10½ |
| Cot'n (Oct.-Bale) | 43.90 | 41.95 |
| Coffee (Sept.-Lb.) | .06½-⅝ | .05⅞ |
| Cocoa (Sept.-Lb.) | .05⅛ | .08⅝ |
| Zinc (Spot-Lb.) | .05½ | .04⅜ |
| Lead (Spot-Lb.) | .0525 | .0505 |

SHAVING CREAM SHORTAGE

In Germany, the shortage of fats is such that war regulations limit a man to one tube of shaving cream in six months.

London to Reopen

LONDON, Sept. 5 (INS)—The London Stock Exchange, which was closed yesterday and today, will re-open on Thursday.

Money Rates

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—Rates on principal foreign currencies quoted in the local market were:

| | Today | Sat. |
|---|---|---|
| Sterling | $4.05 | $4.21 |
| Franc | .0231 | .0240 |

Market Bulletins

GRAINS UP LIMIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP)—All grain prices shot up the prescribed limits today and found few owners willing to sell at those levels. As a result trading was deadlocked. Directors of the exchange, before the opening, further restricted price fluctuations, limiting September contracts to the same range as for deferred deliveries. Heretofore, September wheat, corn and rye could have advanced as much as 8 cents a bushel, while oats could have risen 6 cents.

WOOL MART EXCITED

The wool market in Boston was excited today. Prices of wool tops of average length & ¼ grade, oil combed, were sold at $1 to $1.05 per pound, up 13 to 17 cents over sales early last week. French combing length fine territory wools were sold in Boston at 73 to 78 cents, scoured basis, an advance of approximately 3 to 10 cents over sales of similar wools in the early part of last week.

BOND PRICES MIXED

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—High-priced issues were beaten down in the bond market today but some of the cheaper and secondary issues managed fair gains. The session also witnessed a continuation of last week's decline in U. S. Treasury obligations, a few of them dropping as much as 21-32 of a point.

LIVESTOCK PRICES UP

CHICAGO, Sept. 5 (AP)—War in Europe today lifted hog prices $1 to a top of $8 per hundredweight, a level they had not reached since last March. Cattle prices were mostly 50 cents higher and spring lambs 40 to 65 cents higher.

COTTON FUTURES CLIMB

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5 (AP)—Cotton futures bounded up $1.60 to $2.50 a bale today under brisk trade and foreign buying supported by the outbreak of war.

European Fear vs. American Fun

TODAY THE FRONT PAGE STREAMERS scream, "London vulnerable to Nazi air attack." The sport pages cry, "Boston College stresses air defense." The same words for ideas as remote as Spitzbergen from Little America. The Japs gut Chinese cities! Nazi U boats scuttle an unarmed liner! Millions of Europeans are uprooted! London children are evacuated! The front pages speak Fear! Fear!

But the sport pages say Fun! Fun!

AUSTEN LAKE

So the U. S. citizen who contracts acidosis from the News sections can cool his thoughts by thumbing back past the truss and goiter ads. Our newspaper reading public is accustomed to do this and though most of them have never seen a football band-marshal fling his baton over a cross bar or heard Harvard's, B. C.'s or B. U.'s massed cheering section chant their doggerel rhymes, they are interested and get a moment's uplift to read how the Red Sox outfield bleacherites scaled their summer hats and howled hate at the umpires or how rival alumni battled over bits of goal-post lumber in the gloaming.

That's the way it is with us in the U. S. A. while Londoners take cognizance of the nearest bomb shelter and Paris mammas fit their babes to gas masks. Which is more essential—our sport hysteria or fattening youth for war?

Case of Nazi Davis Cup Team

LET AMERICAN CITIZENS TAKE NOTE of the uncertainties of life under European dictatorship and regard with apprehension existence under a one-man rule. Remember the case of George Metaxa, the Austrian who was anschlussed into the German Davis Cup team, and Henner Henkel, the tennis aces who were cabled peremptory orders to come home from Longwood last year. The only explanation came from a Captain Eric Schoenbrun of the German Tennis Club. He said, Reichsportsfuehrer, Hans von Tschammer und Osten decides to recall Henkel and Metaxa because he considers them overplayed and badly in need of a rest. The decision is irrevocable and in the interest of the players."

When I attempted to talk with them, Henkel and Metaxa had hard little bulges under their jaws. They denied themselves to the press, stating there was "obslootly nuddings to say." "Ve go home" said Henner tersely. "Ve go ho-um," echoed George.

Under similar circumstances a group of U. S. athletes probably would have cabled defiant "Pfuuuttts," or whatever the verbal equivalent of that lusty tongue-bubbling is which denotes vulgar contempt. Americans might have waggled their fingers suggestively to nostrils and invited their home autocrats to perform certain anatomical impossibilities. They have done it before! For such is the inherent right of a freeborn people. But not the Nazi Davis Cup players. They obeyed with humble apprehension!

The American Way

ON A THOUSAND FOOTBALL FIELDS ABOUT the country American youth is preparing its muscles—for fun, not fear! Years hence, as future adults, the lads who play this autumn's games and the classmates they thrilled will be round and bulging where now they have flats and hollows. They will have domestic and money worries, be thin or fat, success or failure. But it will be fine, of a winter's evening to pick up the yellowing clippings of old sport pages, after chasing the children upstairs, and recapture moments which grow more golden with the years.

Yes, that is the way with us in the U. S. A.! Or would it seem better telling the kids how your left leg got shot off in that glorious defense of the bridgehead near Keil, or let them finger the trifles or ribbon and gilt bestowed by some noted politician for wiping out a pillbox on the Siegfried Line.

In ten million parlors around the world there are little framed diplomas in lettered gilt and a dozen different languages reading that Hans, Steve, Rene, Boris and Luigi died in 1914-18 so that idealism might not perish from the earth. Where now brave Hans, Steve, Rene, Boris and Luigi is the idealism for which you laid down your lives? And where now are you? Under some grassy knoll where white wooden crosses stand and wisps of faded bunting flutter. Tears have long since dried and pledges of your grateful nations are forgotten echoes.

Illusion Vs. Delusion

IF I HAVE ANY DEFENSE TO MAKE of high pressure sport and the American mania for athletic extravagance it would be its tendency to drain off surplus emotions in this country. Big time sport is a healthful opiate which soothes national irritations. But European sport is a smattering of soccer, some bicycle and auto racing, secondary boxing and an enormous quantity of calisthenics, stomach tortions and deep breathing. You can't get up an emotional sweat over touching your toes or waving to imaginary sweethearts. Can you?

And the American sport page—that fantastic jumble of he-man jargon! The whole sport page and U. S. sport scheme is, I know, ballooned out of all proportion to its importance. We play up our

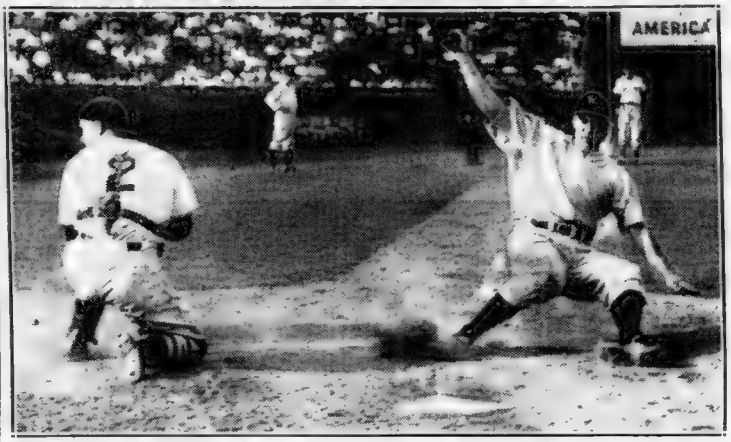
FANS CONCEDE YANKEES AMERICAN LEAGUE FLAG



PERFECT—George Washington Case of the Senators, greatest base stealer of modern times, flashes across the plate at Fenway, safe by a mile, in the fourth inning of the second holiday game. He helped the Nats win, 6-4, after they took the opener, 7 to 6. See how Case falls away from the catcher as he scores, though in this instance there was little chance of his being caught.

By JOE CASHMAN

Every day until next spring could be an open date as far as the average fan is now concerned.

With the Red Sox definitely out of the flag hunt and the Bees doomed to the second division, the customers will turn their attention to war and football while the local big league entries go through the formality of completing their schedules.

So it's merely to keep the records straight that we set down that the Bees will be back tomorrow for a series with the Giants as the Sox invade New York for three games with the Yanks, who may have their fourth straight A. L. pennant clinched before this week is over.

What slim chance existed that the Sox might cause the Yanks a few anxious moments before the curtain fell went up in the Labor Day air at the Fens when the Croninmen were knocked off twice by their erstwhile Capital "cousins" from Washington.

WHIPPED YANKEES

After fighting the champion Yankees off their feet on Saturday and Sunday, the natives were weary and spiritless as they were nosed out 7 to 6 in the opener and then dropped the nightcap, 6 to 4, before a holiday audience of 13,000.

This sudden reversal of form by the Fenway favorites was hardly a surprise to those who have been following the club closely this season.

The Yawkeys have been world-beaters against the New Yorkers, taking 10 out of 15 from them with a Sunday defeat not yet official. But they've faltered repeatedly against second-division rivals, which is why they're 11½ games below the roof despite their superiority in competition with the McCarthy murderers.

For example, they overcame two four-run leads in taking the Sunday opener from the Yanks but in yesterday's opener they couldn't put over the equalizer after getting it to second base with one out in the seventh and to third base with one out in the eighth.

Then, in the nightcap, they couldn't hold a two-run lead.

FOXX, TEDDY ACTIVE

The first game was close because Jimmy Foxx hit his 35th home run and a double and Teddy Williams connected for two doubles.

These blows weren't enough because Jake Wade yielded the Nats three runs before he was yanked in the second and Charlie Gelbert found Emerson Dickman for a triple with the sacks loaded in the fifth. At that, though, the seventh and winning Washington run, off Auker in the sixth, was due to a Cronin error.

A two-run home run by Bobby Estalella, mighty mite from Cuba, gave Pete Appleton a lead he never lost in the afterpiece, as he prevailed against Wilfred Lefebvre, Denny Galehouse and Charlie Wagner.

Nothing resembling the bottle throwing which caused the Sunday nightcap to be forfeited to the Yanks occurred on the holiday. The fans felt more like falling asleep than limbering up their arms and tossing glass ware.

HUBBARD IGNORED YANKS

But the entire baseball world is still talking about the Sabbath incident and will continue to do so until the American League bosses act on the protest made by the Sox before Umpire-in-chief Cal Hubbard decreed the game forfeited to the champs.

Joe Cronin insisted that the game should have been forfeited to the Sox in the first of the eighth. The Yanks, after scoring two runs to break a 5-5 tie, ordered Babe Dahlgren to swing at pitchouts and had George Selkirk and Joe Gordon deliberately walked from third to the plate to be tagged out so as to get the Sox to bat and out, if possible, before 6:30 curfew.

Hubbard ignored the Yanks actions, but when the demonstration by the fans threatened to hold up hostilities until 6:30 and automatically make it a tie game he declared the Yanks winners, 9 to 0.

It is the consensus that the "ump" will be overruled and the game ordered played over.

Holy Cross Gridmen Start Work

WORCESTER, Sept. 5—More than 40 husky young football warriors were here early this morning for the first grid workout of the season under new Head Coach Joe Sheeketski.

Led by Co-Captains Ronnie Cahill and Jim Turner the squad members spent the first hour getting uniforms, then dressed for the opening drill.

With many of the great backs of last year, including Hilary Renz, Henry Ouelette and others, graduated, Sheeketski planned to drive the squad hard.

He said he'd have two workouts a day until the opening of classes, and stated he hoped to have the groundwork of the offense fairly well completed by that time.

Assistant to Dr. Eddie Anderson here for several years, Sheeketski has one advantage in that he is not installing anything new in the line of attack, and he is familiar with the talents of each one of his players, so that he will not have to waste any time getting things in hand.

Sheeketski, following the almost matchless record of Dr. Anderson, must have some breaks to keep the Purple at the same high standard, but he hopes to accomplish that very thing.

With Ed Krausse, formerly of Notre Dame, handling the linemen and Ed O'Melia, ex-Holy Cross end, drilling the ends, Sheeketski will have the backfield problems to keep him busy.

Frisch to Aid Mayor's Show

Frank Frisch, the "Fordham Flash," ranked as one of the greatest major league second basemen of all time, and now Boston's radio commentator extraordinary, has been drafted in a new role, that of umpire, for the several ball games which are to feature next Monday afternoon's Mayor's Charity Field Day at National League Field.

Frisch who is rapidly becoming one of golf's most shining lights, will pass up his usual "off-day" links competition, to don the arbiter's mask and protector as the nines of the fire and police departments, the Boston Olympets and the Boston sportswriters, the park department and the state and city nines clash on the Beehive battle grounds.

Plan 'B' Eleven At Purdue Univ.

Noble E. Kizer, Purdue athletic director, is making plans for an attractive "B" team football schedule for this fall to supplement the varsity schedule and provide an opportunity for actual action for all members of the squad as well as additional entertainment for Boilermaker grid followers.

GRABS SPOTLIGHT AGAIN—Ronnie Cahill, co-captain of the Holy Cross football squad with Jim Turner, sends one of his great kicks far down Fitton Field as the Purple starts work this morning. Cahill and his teammates, under Joe Sheeketski this year, are ex-to form a powerful eleven. They've speed, and enough power to make any opponent step.

4 BATTLE FOR EAGLE PIVOT JOB

A rather peculiar situation exists in the battle for the starting center post in the Boston College lineup. Four men are in the running for the job at the present writing but it is quite obvious that the eventual winner will be either Chester Gladchuk, a letterman last year or Walt Dubzinski a fullback last fall.

Ronnie Corbett, center of last fall's Frosh team and George Ryan, a senior who showed plenty of the right kind of pivot play in the spring drills are the other lads, but both these boys are handicapped by a decided lack of avoirdupois. Corbet weighs but 170 at tops and Ryan is certainly no better than 175

Chisox Buy Texan, Great Base Runner

FT. WORTH, Tex., Sept. 5 (AP)—Sale of Third-Baseman Frank Metha to the Chicago White Sox was announced by the Ft. Worth Texas League club today. Metha, greatest baserunner in recent league history, will report next spring.

HAL SCHUMACHER and BILL JURGES, Giants—Former blanked Phils for six innings. Latter's single in nightcap scored winning run.

PAUL WANER and ELBIE FLETCHER, Pirates—Paul's double gave Pirates 9to first game. Fletcher's homer with three on sank the Cubs in the second.

LUKE HAMLIN, Dodgers, and SEBASTIAN SISTI, Bees—Luke's relief pitching gave Dodgers first-game victory. Sisti's four hits aided Bees in winning afterpiece.

MARIUS RUSSO and RED ROLFE, Yankees—Former hurled three-hit ball to stop A's in nightcap after Red's single knocking home winning run in opener.

BOB HARRIS, Browns, and HANK GREENBERG, Tigers—Former gave Tigers only five hits in winning first game. Hank slammed his 23d and 24th homers, one in each game.

CLINT BROWN, White Sox—His relief pitching enabled the Sox to stop the Indians in 10-inning night affair.

JERSEY NEAR I. L. PENNANT

By Associated Press

The pennant race in the International league is, for practical purposes, all over but the shouting. And there'll be plenty of shouting in Jersey City in a day or two when the Little Giants bring home their first pennant since 1902.

It's still mathematically possible for Rochester or Buffalo locked in a virtual tie for second place as a result of their Labor Day endeavors, to beat out the Jerseys for the championship. But it isn't much more than that.

| | W. | L. | Pct. | Behind |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Jersey City | 85 | 60 | .586 | — |
| Rochester | 79 | 66 | .545 | 6 |
| Buffalo | 81 | 68 | .544 | 6 |

The Little Giants added two full games to their lead in the grand manner yesterday when they invaded the grounds of their rivals the Newark Bears, and won a doubleheader.

Meanwhile, Buffalo dropped out of second place by losing a doubleheader to Montreal, 5-4 and 10-5 while Rochester split with Toronto losing 5-1 and then winning 1-0.

War Threatens Cancellation of Olympics

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 5 (INS)—The 1940 Olympic games were threatened with cancellation today because of the war.

The committee organizing the games in Finland suspended further preparations and began serious consideration of the question of complete cancellation.

The only previous time the Olympic games have been canceled was in 1916 at Berlin because of the World War. The games were recently awarded to Finland when Japan, the original host, relinquished them because of the war with China.

Philly Baseball Magnates Red Hot | Pro Gridders Attract Fans

Judging from his lack of knowledge on the subjects that he is supposed to be fully qualified in, the "expert examiner" for the Civil Service Commission MUST be an ex-radio sport announcer.

For anyone, who has convinced the Governor of the Commonwealth and the Civil Service Commission that he is an "expert examiner" there isn't an "out" for not knowing that umpires-in-chiefs have the authority to overrule their fellow arbitors on rule interpretations or that P. D. Haughton coached baseball as well as football at Harvard.

Connie Mack and Gerry Nugent, heads of the Philadelphia major league baseball clubs, are up in arms over professional football in the City of Brotherly Love . . . The Philadelphia Eagles have been in training since the first of last month.

Connie Mack

Dave O'Brien and Bert Bell the powers that be of the Eagles have been advertising free Sunday afternoon exhibition games between their red and blue squads . . . The Athletics and the Phillies are holding up the American and National Leagues . . . Fans have turned cold shoulders on Shibe Park to attend free football games at the Municipal Stadium.

The Eagles have four Sunday National League pro football games scheduled this month . . . Unless the pro football magnates mend their ways, baseball magnates may be forced into the gridiron racket.

President Will Harridge of the American League will order the forfeited Red Sox-Yankee game replayed . . . Have you noticed how Sebby Sisti has been hitting for the Bees on this trip? . . . That kid will be one of the National League stars within a few years . . .

Red Rolfe, the pride of Penacook, N. H. has made more hits than any player in either major league . . . But, for a freshman, Teddy Williams hasn't done so bad, with 158 safe "knocks."

Muriel Ogg, a 13-year-old and youngest daughter of Willie Ogg, professional at the Worcester Country Club, is the most promising young golfer in the State, according to no less an authority than her sister Margaret, who is the Massachusetts junior champion . . .

"What will I do now?" yelled Ann to some friends standing on the viaduct, "I'm all out of golf balls. She was given another ball and fortunately her fifth drive hit a tree and caromed back on the course . . . Still Ann couldn't shake off her slice, so, after her next shot went out of bounds, she hollered, "Say, can I give her this hole?"

John Cowan was one of the most lovable professionals the royal and ancient game ever produced in this section . . . So, the N. E. P. G. A. should turn out in a body next Sunday when the annual John Cowan Memorial Trophy tournament is played at the Oakley Country Club . . . The pros should contact Fred Low, who succeed John Cowan at Oakley, for partners . . .

Phil and Dick put together a better ball of 66 stopping such stellar combinations as 'Bud' Clancy, Arlmont, "Buddy" Gahan, the Friel brothers, Phil, Woburn, and Jerry, Johnny Thoren, Woodland; C. W. Mulcahy, Jr., Roy Bronsdon, Brae Burn and Alex Lane and John Bernardi, Charles River and George Muir . . .

Many of the best mixed foursome combinations will compete at the Sharon Country Club next Sunday . . . The Sharon mixed foursome tournament is one of the best on the golf calendar and an unusually large field will be in action . . . In all probability, there isn't a guest at the Hotel Mt. Washington at Bretton Woods, N. H., that realizes that Jack Sanderson, the manager of that hostelry, pitched for the Cincinnati Reds about 30 years ago.

Jack Wilson

On Saturday, while fooling around first base, Jack Wilson turned his ankle and came up with a bad sprain . . . Instead of reporting to Trainer Win Green for first aid treatment, Jack went to the "bull pen" and when he finally reached the hospital ward his ankle was swollen and very sore.

That's why Wilson didn't see service during the Yankee double-header . . . Bobby Grove, son of the Sox southpaw, will leave late this week to enroll at Duke University.

DOUGHBOYS USED GRENADES WHEN PAN FISH WERE NEEDED

By DARK MONTREAL

At times like these, there are lots of worse things to do than go a-fishing. And lucky is the man—or woman—who can put cares and worries and forebodings aside for a day or an hour while being soothed in soul by the timeless surge of the tides or the calm beauty of a mountain lake.

It is not by accident that so many persons charged with the affairs of states and nations spend their hard-won leisure with rod and line.

Pursuing their sport where the fragrance of pine and hemlock and balsam are in their nostrils and the everlasting hills counsel them in patience, they find themselves restored in mind and body.

Or if they go to the salt water for their angling, the ocean's unchangeable immensity, the salty tang of the winds that sweep the world banish war and business jitters as can no doctor's prescription or psychoanalyst's formula.

SOLDIERS HAD "YEN"

Many a Yank doughboy and cannoneer, experienced from boyhood in fishing technique, gazed longingly, in 1917 and 1918, at meandering French streams, the Aisne, the Marne, the Meuse and their grass-and-tree-bordered tributaries.

Even near the front there were many picturesque watercourses happily undevastated by the comings and goings of the armies.

Rods and reels and regulation angling tackle were not to be found, however, in a soldier's pack. And top-sergeants had plenty for khaki-clad underlings to do besides go a-fishing where the sound of the big guns thudding just beyond the hills was always audible and the observation balloons hung grimly watchful on the far horizon.

So it wasn't surprising that sportsman-like ethics went into the discard and soldier-fishermen had recourse to the quick and effective measure of tossing hand grenades into likely looking pools.

Countless company and battery mess menus were thus amplified by fish courses, which formed a welcome relief from monotonous bread and bacon and "slum" rations.

Coming back from war-torn France to pleasantly peaceful New England, Bob Court says he took a two-pound bass this week from Dark Hollow pond, just across the Felsway from Spot Pond in Stoneham.

As Bob tells it:

"I only went to the pond to try out a new casting reel. I supposed there wasn't anything to catch there, except perhaps a few yellow perch.

"But the first thing I knew, I was tied up with a couple of pounds of finny TNT. Afterward I learned that state conservation officers or water works officials, one or the other, had seined 20 or 30 barrels full of game fish out of Winchester reservoir, which was getting too populous with them, and had dumped them into Dark Hollow pond, saying nothing to anybody.

"How long present good fishing conditions at Dark Hollow will continue, you can't prove by me. But there are bass in there right now—and they're hitting hard."

With the coot hunting season opening September 15, gun-loving sportsmen are already overhauling their weapons and getting the old shooting coat out of mothballs.

Advertising columns of the rod and gun magazines furnish an odd offer this autumn—from a firm which offers a course of instruction in duck calling, with a phonograph record to acquaint the novice with actual tone and timbre of the quack-quacking and honking he seeks to emulate with wood or metal contraptions.

AUSSIE DUO WIN NET CUP

HAVERFORD Pa., Sept. 5 (INS)—Amid scenes that gave the oldsters in the gallery a melancholy memory of 1914, Australia won the Davis Cup from America—just as another Australian team of another era had won it from America on the verge of the first World War.

Jack Bromwich, and Adrian Quist, greatest Australian tennis duo since the immortal combine of Norman Brookes and the late Anthony Wilding, seized the old trophy by beating Americas finest singles players, Bobby Riggs of Chicago and Frankie Parker of Pasadena, to give Australia a bare but adequate margin of three matches to two.

In the biggest upset of the tennis year, and one of the greatest Davis Cup matches ever played, Quist beat Riggs 6—1, 6—4, 3—6, 3—6, 6—4, to tie up the count at two matches each. And then Jack Bromwich, owner of the world's most eccentric game, waded through Parker, 6—0, 6—3, 6—1, in an anti-climatic gallop to clinch the 40-year-old trophy.

PLENTY THRILLS

All the thrills that can be compressed into tennis were jammed into the unforgettable clash between Quist and Riggs as the tables turned and returned and turned again and Quist, with one last gasping spurt, slashed his way to victory.

By comparison the Bromwich-Parker thing was a pale and lifeless demonstration, made up of long easy rallies which usually ended with Parker badly missing on his forehand.

Bromwich, steadier than a practice board, won the first seven games of the match, swept through five straight to win the second set, and copped three love games in a row in the final, to bring Australia its first Davis Cup success in a quarter of a century and end America's two-year lease on the cup.

Quist, an enlisted machine gunner, will lead the team back to Australia immediately, to join the armed forces with Harry Hopman, captain of the team. Subject to the Australian draft is the 20-year-old Bromwich and Jack Crawford, the team's veteran spare. All will miss the national singles, which start Thursday at Forest Hills and wherein Bromwich was seeded No. 1 among the foreign players.

C.Y.O. Title at Stake In Columbus Park Tilt

With one triumph already tucked under their belt for the championship in the senior loop of the Catholic Youth Organization, the hard-hitting St. Mark's aggregation from Dorchester will attempt to make it two when they clash with the St. Monica nine of South Boston, Wednesday night in Columbus park, South Boston.

If St. Mark's cop their second victory they will be crowned the "1939 C. Y. O. champions" as it is a two-out-of-three series for the title.

Cards Gain on Reds; Only 4 Games Back

By PAT ROBINSON

International News Service Sports Writer

If the Red Sox had the same penchant for trimming the chumps that they have for beating the champs, the next World Series would be played in Boston.

As it is, the Red Sox find themselves trailing the Yanks by 14½ games today, chiefly because they can't lick the pushovers. The Senators took a pair from them yesterday, 7-6 and 6-4, while the Yanks were taking the Athletics, 7-6 and 2-0.

CARDS FOUR GAMES BACK

The Browns twisted the Tigers' tail by taking the first, 3-2, and getting a Mexican stand-off in the second, 5-5, when darkness intervened at the end of the eighth.

The Cards pulled themselves up within four games of the Reds, whom they blanked in the opener, 4-0, and fought to a 6-6 draw in the nightcap.

The Pirates virtually killed whatever pennant chances the Cubs may have had by taking a pair, 2-1 and 6-3.

The Giants shoved the Dodgers out of the first division by knocking over the Phils, 10-0 and 7-6, and Kirby Higbe had the unenviable distinction of losing both games.

FELLER LOSES

The Dodgers beat the Bees, 5-4, for Hamlin's 16th victory but then blew the second affair, 5 to 2.

Bob Feller blew up in the tenth to allow three runs by which the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Cleveland Indians 5 to 2 in a night game played as the second half of a planned double-header, of which the first game was washed out.

FETTE FACES DODGERS

BROOKLYN, Sept. 5—Lou Fette will try his hand at subduing the Dodgers this afternoon with Young Casey as the opposing hurler. Both clubs plit a double header on the holiday. The Dodgers won the opener, 5 to 4, while the Bostonians annexed the nightcap 5 to 2.

Inasmuch as the Giants won two from the Phillies, the second game defeat dropped the Dodgers into fifth place.

In the finale, the Bees stepped out to a 1 to 0 lead in the third inning when Cooney's sacrifice fly sent Sisti home, who had doubled. Brooklyn tied matters in the fifth and went ahead in the sixth. The equalizing run was fashioned when Lavagetto doubled Coscarart over the plate. In the sixth the Dodgers made it 2 to 1. Parks singled and hits by Todd and Durocher moved Parks over.

The Bees took a 3 to 2 lead in the eighth. Lopez, Warstler, Sisti and Outlaw, who had swung for Dick Errickson, singled in succession accounting for the two tallies.

At the expenses of Vito Tamulis, who followed Al Hollingsworth to the mound, the Bees made it 5-2 in the ninth. Hassett, Lopez and Warstler singled, bringing over one run while Sisti's fourth hit of the game, sent Warstler in.

Though relieved by Frankhouse in the eighth, Errickson got credit for his fourth win. When the Dodgers threatened in the ninth, MacFayden was called in to stem the tide. Danny was equal to the occasion.

Lavagetto, whose ninth inning single won the first game, made six straight hits and reached first base, eight straight times. Sebastian Sisti, aside from playing sensationally afield, notched four hits in the nightcap.

2046 in Biggest U. S. Rifle Duel

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 5 (AP)—More than 2000 crack marksmen eyed targets today in the individual rifle match, one of the top events of the national meet. The 2046 entered comprised the largest list ever enrolled for a single sports event in America.

In yesterday's feature, a Washington National Guard squad defeated Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard teams in a musketry problem match. The Far West sharpshooters piled up 530 points to 527 for the Army cavalry team and 519 for the Coast Guard.

The Marine Corps won five of the first 10 places in the Wright Memorial grand aggregate match, based on the total scored in three of the major 30-caliber competitions.

Master Gunner Sergt. Thomas J. Jones, who last week won the President's Match, headed the list, followed by Corp. Clifford W. Rowlings, of Waukegan, Ill., and Sergt. Waldo A. Phinny, of Wakefield, Kan. All are marines.

The Marine Corps won the national pistol team match. On the winning squad were Capt. William J. Whaling, Master Gunner James R. Tucker, Lieut. Philip C. Metzger and Sergt. Thurman E. Barrier, of Quantica, Va.; John E. Heath, of Glassport, Pa.; Vito Perna, of Wakefield, Mass., and Sergt. Robert E. Schoenaman, of Jewett City, Conn.

CHELSEA, DEDHAM READY FOR OPENER

One week from Thursday night Frank Garvey's Chelsea Red Raiders are playing host to Jack Heaphy's Dedham gridmen in an arc light engagement at the Chelsea Memorial Stadium. This scrap officially rings up the curtain on the 1939 interscholastic pigskin season. In a word, there are just nine more days before the school gridsters start out in quest of the state championship.

Peabody, Chelsea and Gloucester were the "big three" in interscholastic warfare in 1938. The question now before the house: Who is going to take the championship laurels this fall?

Teams to tab this year are Chelsea again, Medford, Rindge Tech and Everett.

Although Tommy O'Connor's Medford eleven will be small, it also will be packed with pigskin intelligence and spirit.

Generally one of the strongest clubs in the Greater Boston district, Somerville won't show too much this fall. The Art McManus machine lost a multitude of grand performers through graduation. The Red and Blue organization should be rated most successful if it gets an even split over its tough 10-game schedule.

Speaking of Somerville, the McManus huskies held practice this morning and have a stiff scrimmage on tap for this afternoon. Their opening contest with Cambridge Latin is one week from Friday at George Dilboy Field, West Somerville. Yes, it's another nocturnal attraction.

Elevens to check in the Boston proper ranks are Boston English, Boston Latin, Dorchester, Roslindale, Dorchester and Commerce.

Steve White's South Boston eleven won't be near as potent as the last two years when it captured the championship.

Weather cloudy, track fast.

GREYHOUND, ROSALIND SHOOT AT DUO RECORD

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5 (AP)— A scheduled attempt by Greyhound and Rosalind, the great trotting champions, to beat their own mile record of 1:59 as a team topped the program today for the Grand Circuit harness racing meet at the Indiana State Fair.

Greyhound with his 1:55¼ record and Rosalind with 1:56¾, were to be driven by Sep Plain, the veteran Indianapolis reinsman, in their record attempt. They set the 1:59 mark recently at Syracuse, N. Y.

Heading the regular Grand Circuit event was the Horsemen Stake for two-year-old trotters, richest two-year-old trotting event of the year. It will have a value of approximaely $10,000. Kuno, Earl's Moody Guy, Melba Hanover and Queen Victoria seemed the most serious contenders.

AUSTEN LAKE

games as huge medicine shows in language shamelessly extravagant. But it is flavored to our citizens' taste and gives them, man, woman and child, a fascinating topic for talk. European sport pages are a thin sprinkling of columnar gossip and dribs of agate type. A few supercilious gents like Trevor Wignal spout excathedra ponderosities like Jove pitching pennies to the peasants. But look around at your U. S. sport pages-posturing products of popular demand whose authors say it with acid or orchids. Fantastic? Perhaps! But fantasy is vital to the American mind. Fantasy means illusion and dreams and pre-occupation. But the European sport attitude bespeaks delusion, morbidity and mischief.

So, that is the American way, among lovers of illusion. Or do you prefer delusion in the Continental style—an emotional escape through racial animosities, mass psychosis, sadistic sovereignty and Fear! Fear! Better American sport and sport pages—the perennial ballyhoo, the flamboyant tub-thumping, the extravagant patois which says FUN! FUN!

MY SIN SPEED CHAMPION

DETROIT, Sept. 5 (AP)—A 20-foot mahogany and green hulled hydroplane which her owner, Z. G. Simmons, Jr., of Greenwich, Ct., calls "My Sin," today holds the North American speedboat championship and a new speed record for the event.

Simmons drove his 16-cylinder craft to a three-heat victory in a race yesterday that saw the Gold Cup jinx eliminate each of the five other contenders from one or more heats. His speed of 66.227 miles an hour bettered Count Theo Rossi's record of 64.340 miles an hour, made here last year for the 90-mile run.

Count Rossi of Italy was prevented from defending his championship by the war in Europe.

Even Simmons, however, did not escape the hard luck that has dogged Gold Cup contestants in recent years. After he crossed the finish line in the third heat he reported to the judges that a port pontoon had cracked under the gruelling drive.

His boat, nevertheless, was the day's star performer. He made the best lap speed with a six-mile dash at 70.153 miles an hour and his was the only boat that did not have to go to the repair shop between heats.

Flaherty to Lead Stars' Opponents

The Washington Redskins that return to Fenway Park on next Monday evening, Sept. 11, to do battle with the Eastern College All-Stars under the sponsorship of the Crosscup-Pishon Post A. L., spanned the jump from mediocrity to brilliance simultaneously with the signing of Red Flaherty, now starting his fourth year with the Redskins.

When Marshall packed his tent and moved into his home town, Washington, the Redskins not only captured the Eastern title but went on to defeat the Chicago Bears, Western leaders, for the world's championship.

It was during this campaign that Slingin' Sammy Baugh, greatest of all pigskin heavers, made his debut, and the long, lean Texan with the strike-tossing right arm literally pitched the Tribe to the world title at Chicago by tossing three touchdown passes in a 28-21 triumph.

A better idea of the success of Flaherty and the Tribe since 1936 can be gleaned by examining the records of wins and losses since the club was organized in 1932 at Boston. The all-time record shows 38 wins, 34 losses, and 7 ties, but since the Gonzaga Redhead took over the record shows 21 wins, 11 defeats and two ties.

What is in store for the burly Redman this season time will tell, but from the fine crop of newcomers in the fold, it looks as if George Marshall is in for another fine season.

Olympets, Totem Teams Show at Fair

The Boston Olympets, all-girl softball team, will travel to the Brockton Fair on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 10, to meet Ben Levias' crack Totem Pole girls as a feature opening event for the annual fair.

The Olympets are New England's top girls' team, having defeated all comers in this part of the country. They number the Burnham Brady Girls of Hartford, Connecticut champions for the past five years, among their more recent victims. To date the local lasses also have conquered the Rhode Island champions and the Maine champions.

A-1 GRID PROSPECTS FOR IRISH

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 5 (AP)—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame will go into the football wars this fall without six members of 1938's varsity line, but it's a little too early to weep over Head Coach Elmer Layden's plight.

Layden himself isn't shedding any tears. He's taking it easy on a fishing trip in Wisconsin, resting up for the arduous task ahead—to match or improve last year's record when Notre Dame won eight games on a tough-nine-game schedule.

Capt. John Francis Kelly at right end is the only member of the line returning, but there is at least one letterman for every position on the team and a total of 16 letter winners back on the Irish squad.

STRONG BACKFIELD

SIXTH YEAR FOR LAYDEN

Layden is beginning his sixth season at Notre Dame, where he has won 33 games, lost nine and tied three since taking over in 1934. Last fall was his best, when the Irish lost only to Southern California after winning eight straight game.

The Irish begin practice Sept. 11, giving them three weeks to prepare for the opener against Purdue on Sept. 30 at South Bend.

HITLER FIRED ON

BERLIN, Sept. 5 (INS)—The automobile carrying Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler through battle areas of the Polish corridor was fired on by Polish troops today. Military circles in Berlin said the incident occurred when Hitler motored through a partly-burning area of the front near Culm.

His car was fired on when the official group passed a bend in the road within 400 yards of the spot where a crack Polish detachment was trying to fight its way out around Crone on the Brahe river.

2D BRITISH SHIP SUNK BY U-BOAT

LONDON, Sept. 5 (INS)—A report was received by the British Ministry of Information today that the British freighter Bosnia had been sunk.

Available information stated that all members of the crew had been rescued by the Norwegian tanker Eidanger except for a fireman named Woods, who is dead.

Associated Press dispatches from Liverpool, England, said the Bosnia was a Cunard Line freighter and carried a crew of 23.

(A message from the 2407-ton Bosnia, interrupted before completion, gave her position as about 100 miles off the Scottish coast. The tanker was reported proceeding to Lisbon with the rescued.)

(If the position given above is correct, it would indicate that the Bosnia was sunk presumably by the same submarine alleged to have torpedoed the Athenia.)
